SHIP BOMBED 12 TIMES, TWO VICTIMS SAY

Pair Who Escaped Death In Tragedy, Say Gunboat's Flags 'Plainly Visible.'

American Seamen Stayed at Posts, Firing Machine Guns Till Craft Went Down.

(Copyright by United Press)

Two of three survivors of the Japanese airplane bombing of the United States gunboat Panay and three Standard Oil ships told their story to Fanya Graham, of the United Press staff, on their arrival today at Shanghai.

The story was one of heroism in the death of the Panay and the destruction of the Standard ships.

Jim Marshall, Seattle, writer for Collier's, and John L. Hodge, of Siluria, Ala., machinist's mate of the Panay, were the two who told the story. Marshall, his wounded neck and shoulder bandaged, and Hodge, his head gashed and his legs bruised, were at the Cathay hotel.

The third who arrived was C. C. Vines, Roanoke, Va., employed by the British American Tobacco company. Vines, suffering from wounds which were believed not to be severe, was taken to the county hospital.

The stories as they were told to Miss Graham are:

By JIM MARSHALL

The boys on the Panay trained their machine guns on the Japanese planes that attacked us and they continued fighting until the ship went down.

I would like to tell all Americans that every man on the ship had guts.

They fought practically to their last bullet, firing at the planes as they dived on us—12 times in all.

The American flag was painted plainly on the Panay, and the ship flew American flags as well.

Three of the planes dived down to what seemed to be within 300 feet of the river. They dropped bombs but they did not fire machine guns.

The sound of those planes div-

"Full House" To Honor Tygers At Banquet Tonight

The "S. R. O." sign went up today at the Mansfield-Leland banquet hall—scene of tonight's "Victory banquet," sponsored by The News-Journal for Mansfield High's football team.

That meant that every available ticket had been sold before noon today, that no more can be sold, and that a "packed house" will pay tribute to Mansfield's fine 1937 football team tonight, hear Pete Henry, all-time All-America tackle, J. Y. Clinton, referee of 500 big-time footfall games, and see a stellar program of football movies.

The whistle will sound for the start of festivities at 6:30 p. m. and Paul Williams, C. of C. secretary and toastmaster for tonight's banquet, will "kick off."

From that moment on, the program will move at a rapid rate—in real "razzle-dazzle" style.

At the banquet will be 70 members of the Mansfield High squad, coaches, cheer leader, drum majors and bandsmen, visiting coaches and their team captains and lots and lots of John Q. Fans—to say nothing of a lot of Mrs. John Q. Fans.

Hey, N.T.G., Here's Real Stage Show

Muster-Cheers Challenge Anyone to Top Their 'Passing Parade.'

OPEN LETTER to Olsen and Johnson and N. T. G.: As producers of modern revues you fellows have your good points, but we, the Three Muster-Cheers, will give you cards and spades and then come out 'way ahead of the game with our 1937 Christmas show, "The Passing Parade of 1937."

We're not competing with certain phases of your shows—but for real, honest-to-John entertainment and eye-filling beauty, we'll match you Saturday night at the Warner Brothers Ohio theater where we are staging our annual show for the benefit of the Christmas baskets.

Take our finale, for instance. While we don't want to describe it and spoil it for the audience, we'll give you an idea. A glittering sleigh from the Far North loaded with the cunningest Eskimos you ever saw . . . the merry jingle of sleigh bells . . . the lights of the Aurora Borealis . . . and a dazzling finish to the music of a swell orchestra.

Then there is our Hawaiian number, bluer than blue, with a pretty girl singing behind every pineapple in sight . . . And our soloist, a little girl in slim sheath of red, singing "Siboney" in a manner that will carry her audience right down to Havana with her.

And we've got dancers, Mr. Producers, that are just as good as yours—only ours will have on more clothes. Pretty ones, too. A flying Sonja Heine on roller skates, a dancing team, and a chorus that—well, you've got to SEE a chorus, you know. And costumes—some of 'em are black

RESERVED SEAT SALE

The reserved seat board for "The Passing Parade of 1937" will open at noon Thursday at the Warner Brothers Ohio theater, inside box office, and will be open until 10:15 p. m. It will be open Friday during the same hours and Saturday from noon to 11:30 p. m. To reserve your seats—all seats are to be reserved—you must present the green exchange tickets. There's no extra charge. No telephone reservations can be made, however.

OK'S SCHOOL TAX

Crestline District Approves 3-Mill Levy, 772 to 402.

A three-mill levy for current operating expenses for Crestline schools was approved by a vote of 772 to 402 at a special election yesterday, just six weeks after the same proposal was voted down by the district.

The levy, which will provide an additional $12,000 a year for three years, carried in eight of the nine precincts in the school district in yesterday's election.

Only in the Richland county section of the district was the proposal turned down. In that section, which includes about half of Sandusky township, the vote was 13 for and 22 against the levy.

Success of the levy, which followed a spirited campaign in its behalf, will enable Crestline schools to resume a full schedule of extra-curricular activities and meet its current bills, board of education members said.

ORDERS MERCY FOR DINGLEDINE

Springfield Jury Convicts Gunman in Police Killing; Gets Life Term.

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—A jury convicted Harry B. Dingledine, 54, today of first degree murder in the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Edward F. Furry, but recommended mercy, making a life sentence mandatory.

Dingledine's son was convicted three weeks ago by a jury in the same case and condemned to be electrocuted.

The Dingledines and Harry Chapman who is awaiting trial, were accused of murder in the slayings of Furry and Patrolman Martin Randolph last Sept. 3 in a gun battle at nearby Crystal Lake. Robert Cornette, a paroled convict, also was killed in the shooting.

The jury reported at 10:20 a. m. It had resumed consideration of the case at 9:03 a. m. after being locked up for the night. Deliberations were started at 8:19 p. m. yesterday.

The state demanded the death penalty in its final argument and pictured Dingledine as the brains of a gang which plotted the kidnap-robbery of a Springfield cafe proprietor.

Furry and Patrolman Martin Randolph were killed when officers engaged in a gun battle with the alleged perpetrators of the robbery.

BRITAIN AFTER DEFINITE PLEDGE

Seeks Guarantee By Japan On Safety of British Shipping.

LONDON—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden informed commons today that Great Britain is seeking definite action by Japan to guard against recurrence of attacks on British shipping.

He said the Japanese government realizes the recurrence of such incidents in the Far East must impair relations between the two countries.

The note being dispatched today would define the British government's attitude "toward the whole series of incidents, emphasizing the seriousness of the situation thus created and requirements which, in their judgment, flow from it," Eden said.

U. S. Best, Writer Asserts After 17 Years of Travel

McDermott, Addressing Travelers Club on Their 50th Anniversary, Sees No Other System Superior.

Indicating a feeling of respect for Russia, pity for Spain, and fear of and for Germany, William F. McDermott, dramatic critic and columnist for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, made plain his decided preference for the United States in a lecture before members of the Travelers' club and their guests last night at the Westinghouse auditorium. The meeting was in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the organization.

"After 17 years of travel in Europe as a journalist, I see no other system superior to our democracy," McDermott told his audience of 300.

Gives History of Club.

McDermott was introduced by Mrs. H. T. Pritchard, president of Travelers' club, who briefly sketched the history of the club from its organization by a group of social and civic leaders in 1887. The group started out to pursue the study of art, current events, literature, and travel, and actually traveled to learn of other countries at first hand.

"It was from this beginning," Mrs. Pritchard said, "that Mansfield has become one of the most travel-conscious cities in the United States."

"We want, also, larger exemptions and protections for the family-sized farm," it read.

'Wanted to Adopt—Little Girl', Ad Says as Couple Seeks Child for Home

Classified Advertisement Carries Appeal of Mansfielders.

By FRANCES GENSLEY

Behind a little classified ad in yesterday's News-Journal, that read: "WANTED TO ADOPT—A little girl 1½ to 3 years old, in a nice home," lies a moving story.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davis who live at 78 East Newlon place, lost their own child about two years ago and since that time they have been endeavoring to make a permanent home for another. At one time they had a little boy in their home for six months, and were ready to sign the adoption papers, when the mother decided to take her son back.

Later a family of five children were orphaned. Davis worked to find homes for the youngsters. A boy and a girl — twins—he took into his home with the hope of adopting the little girl. However, certain family difficulties arose and an older member of the family took both the boy and girl from them. Thus the advertisement which appeared in Tuesday's News-Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis want to make a home for one little girl. Her age must be from 1½ to 3 years, but her eyes may be blue, black, green or brown.

"We don't care what color her hair is just so long as she's a girl," Davis says.

While the Davises had the little boy and the twins in their custody they purchased clothing, toys, a baby bed, and even a pony for the children. Now

FOES MAPPING FIGHT ON WAR REFERENDUM

House Leader Seeks to Block Bill Requiring Consent of People For Hostilities.

TERM ACT 'DANGEROUS'

Declare Plan Would Put U. S. at Disadvantage In Event of Sudden Strife.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.)— Rep. Louis Ludlow's perennial fight to "complete the bill of rights" by reserving for the people the power to declare war faced determined administration opposition today.

Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, D., Tex., announced he would exert every effort to prevent consideration of the Indiana Democrat's war referendum resolution despite completion of a petition to bring the proposal to the house floor Jan. 10.

Committee In Session.

The house judiciary committee met to decide whether to go ahead with hearings on the Ludlow resolution to initiate a constitutional amendment requiring a majority vote of the electorate before congress may declare war outside of the United States or its territories.

The 218th and final signature was obtained late yesterday while congressmen freely exressed concern over the sinking of the American gunboat Panay by Japanese bombs. A last minute effort by the leadership to scratch names failed.

The petition is technically a motion to discharge the rules committee, but actually it would relieve the judiciary body of further consideration of a proposal on which it has witheld action for three years. tI provides for six ours of debate before a final vote.

By weaning a few signers when the motion comes to a vote the leadership could keep the resolution from debate and kill it temporarily.

Back State Department.

The committee majority and the house leadership support the private contention of state department officials that submitting a declaration of war to a popular vote would be dangerous. The state department's attitude was understood to be that a referendum would subject the nation's armed forces to costly delay if sudden military action on foreign shores was deemed necessary.

Signing of the petition by a majority of the house did not insure passage because an initiation resolution requires a two-thirds vote approved by both houses.

STUDIES CASES

New Parole Board Considers Actions of Old Group.

COLUMBUS— (AP) —The state parole board, recently reorganized by Gov. Martin L. Davey, is investigating approximately 25 cases handled by the old board, it was learned reliably today.

The cases involve paroled prisoners and several whom were denied paroles.

The board, which yesterday rescinded a parole granted by the former board and postponed further action on the case until 1940, is making its inquiries at the request of county prosecutors and friends of the prisoners, it was learned.

The board took up today a special grand jury's request for revocation of another parole—that granted nearly 18 months ago to Louis C. Vandervort, serving a life sentence for slaying a Wilmington policeman. Vandervort is scheduled to be released Dec. 20.

GIRDLER HITS 'UNFAIRNESS'

Steel Chairman Says Revision of Wagner Act Necessary to Halt Recession.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Revision of the Wagner act was viewed today by Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel corporation, as the "very first step which should be taken to curb the current recession.

The act needs to be changed "so that both parties to collective bargaining—employers as well as employes—will get a square deal," he said in an address last night to the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Girdler, dominant industrial figure in the "Little Steel" strike last summer, also advocated revision of the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes, modification of Social Security laws, a balanced budget, and ending "experiments in government control."

He contended existing business conditions were caused by "a whole series of national policies, probably well intended in their humanitarian objectives, but impractical in their operation and administration and undemocratic in their impact upon the country."

Labor legislation, he said, should guarantee employes the right to bargain collectively with their employers through representatives of their own choosing without coercion from any source, provide that no employe should

ICE GROUNDS PLANES, TIES UP HIGHWAYS

Driving Conditions 'Worst Ever,' Patrol Head Says; No One Injured Here.

ONE MAJOR STATE MISHAP

20 Hurt at East Liverpool as Trolley Runs on Icy Rails; More Sleet on Way.

Highway and air traffic was paralyzed throughout Ohio today as a coating of sleet and ice blanketed the state, resulting in driving conditions that were described as "the worst ever" by Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the state highway patrol.

Despite the slippery streets and roads, only one major accident was reported, and no one was reported injured in the Richland county area.

Street Car Crashes.

The state's major mishap was at East Liverpool where 20 persons were injured, two seriously, when a heavily loaded street car ran wild down a grade and crashed into an automobile and a utility pole.

Seriously hurt in the crash, which was blamed on ice-coated rails, were Charles E. Dietz, 60, the motorman, and George Chadwick, 62, second vice president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

Another passenger also was in a hospital suffering from shock and bruises. The others received only minor injuries and were treated and released.

There were 40 persons in the car when it got out of control on a hill during the morning rush hour and sped down the grade at 50 miles an hour, United Press dispatches said.

—Traffic Grinds Here.

In Mansfield, where a number of collisions were reported, street maintenance crews worked continuously after midnight coating the slippery thoroughfares with salt, gravel and cinders. Throughout the state, highway workers spread cinders and gravel on curves and hills to rescue stranded trucks and automobiles.

Motorists and pedestrians bound for work in Mansfield this morning moved at a snail's pace.

Pedestrians went into unexpected acrobatics on the glazed sidewalks, but no injuries were reported.

Physician Pleads Guilty In Dope Case, Put In Hospital.

Pleading guilty through his counsel to an indictment charging illegal sale of morphine, Dr. James Sawyer, 63, Mansfield physician, today was ordered confined to the Toledo State hospital for mental patients for a six-months observation period.

The plea came through Attys. John C. O'Donnell and J. V. Will in common pleas court this morning as Dr. Sawyer's trial entered the third day.

Judge C. H. Huston, who ordered the confinement, said he believed Dr. Sawyer was not responsible for his behavior and deferred final disposition of the case until he has considered reports from the hospital at the end of six months.

Neither the physician nor his defense witnesses appeared on the witness stand during the trial. Ten prosecution witnesses testified.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS GIVEN FOR PARENTS

Woodland P. T. A., Bowman, Newman and Hedges Organizations Meet for Business—Plan Social Events.

SCHOOL CHILDREN in the various grades have been participating in Christmas programs for the entertainment of their mothers at the various Mothers' club meetings. At the Woodland P. T. A. regular meeting yesterday a holiday program was presented by a Mansfield musician and a reader.

Mrs. Joy Herbert, harpist, played "Melody," by Davis, "Largo" by Dvorak, and "Noel Cantique" by Adam. Miss Isabel Robinson gave a reading from the book "The Sad Shepherd" by Van Dyke and announcement was made of the formation of scout troop No. 8. Members of the advisory committee are Mrs. H. W. Gibbs, Mrs. Clay W. Noel, and Charles Beelman.

Mrs Frank T Wendt is captain and the post of lieutenant is being filled by Mrs. Charles Beelman. Newly appointed health chairman is Mrs. C. H. Bell and Mrs. Frank Bissman is the magazine chairman. The next meeting will be Jan. 11.

Opening the meeting members of the Bowman Street School Mothers' club sang Christmas carols yesterday before Harold W. Ireland, president of the Mansfield Board of Education, spoke on his recent European trip and showed colored movies.

Pupils of the, fifth and sixth grade gave a playlet, "A Fat Christmas Stocking" directed by Miss Melverda Birch. Fifth and sixth grade girls then presented carols and Mr. Gifford, state bar association representative, spoke on the judicial selections.

The next meeting will be Jan. 11 at the school.

Community singing opened the meeting of the Newman School P. T. A. last night and a committee was appointed immediately to work with members of the Mothers' club to investigate the possibilities of repairing the school kitchen for use. Committee members are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Strohme and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Yankovitch.

Rooms having the largest representation of parents present were Miss Isabel Mosey's third grade and J. J. Thoms' fifth grade.

There will be no regular meeting of the Men's club this month, but they will meet again Jan. 24.

Carols were presented by a fifth and sixth grade chorus and Rev. C. E. Sheriff spoke on "A Christmas Message." Announcement was made of the Christmas program to be given at the school Friday at 1 p. m. by the children. The next P. T. A. meeting will be Jan. 11.

Members of the two first grade classes of the Hedges School entertained the Mothers' club with a Christmas program yesterday. The Mothers' Singers also offered carols The committee members in charge of arrangements were Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs Fred Maynes, Mrs. Melvin Ginnever, Mrs. Raymond Boop, Mrs H E Robins, and Mrs. Glen Davidson.

The club will meet next Jan. 25 for a covered dish dinner in honor of the patrol boys.

Black for Skating.

Nothing is smarter for the skating costume than black with colored accessories or details If you are young enough to skate—and who isn't?—why not make yourself a clever skating costume if you feel you cannot afford to buy one. Of course you can skate in your skiing suit if you cannot, or do not want to buy a regular skating dress. A regular costume for your skiing, coasting and skating saves your good clothes and keeps you warm and comfortable, no doubt about that.

For gift flannel house coats shown in several different stylings, it is reported that raspberry heads the color list.

There were 10 men in this dainy purse at 2:30 . . .

Thirty-five members of Delta Theta Tau were entertained at a dessert-bridge party at the Susie Janis home last night. Prizes were won by Miss Mary Cox, and Miss Lee Heim. The annual gift exchange was held and pals were disclosed. The next meeting will be with Miss Louise Palmer, Dec. 20.

Phi Delta Tau had a Christmas party at the home of Miss Jeannette Kuhn, Shelby, last night. Winners of bridge prizes were the Misses Eleanor Ropp, Marjorie Brooks and Elizabeth Leap. Miss Ropp will be hostess to the group at her home, 75 Lind avenue, Jan. 4.

* * *

Beta Kappa Tau members met in the Larwell rooms of the Public library for their regular meeting with Miss Thelma Dickson in charge. Important business was postponed because of the illness of the adviser, Miss Elizabeth Weinert. The next meeting will be a social meeting Dec. 21 at the home of Miss Ruth Bollman, Newman street. Miss Marcielle Cline will assist. The regular business meeting will be Dec. 28.

JAM FOR CHURCH

In a church in Scotland, confusing echoes caused the sermons to be nightmares of sound.

A worshiper remembered the story of an old Roman architect who ended such troubles by placing hollow animal horns around the walls of a building. Rounding up scores of jam jars he placed them in rows around the church and the confusing echoes disappeared.

All A Glitter.

Gold powder is being dusted on the heads of smart women to make shining "topknots" for evening wear. Blondes, redheads and brunettes are all doing it.

Simple Line Shown In Metal

The type of frock suitable for formal afternoon wear is shown above in a gold metallic cloth with short puffed sleeves. Its richness lies in the fabric, since the lines are very simple. A corded belt and bow at both waistline and neck are its only trimming. A black velvet halo hat is worn with it.

Church Organizations Have Luncheons, Business Meets

TUESDAY apparently was an important day in the church circles as a large number of classes, guilds, and societies of the various Mansfield churches held their meetings then.

Mrs. Paul Lee was elected president of the St. Paul guild for the coming year at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Stanley Blackstone, Bartley avenue, last night. Mrs. George Berg will be the vice president for the coming year.

Other officers are: Mrs. Don Borchard, secretary; Mrs. William Hahn, associate secretary; Mrs. Blackstone, treasurer; and Mrs. H. L. Gilbert, pianist. Mrs. Berg led the devotions and a social hour followed.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Gordon Schwan, Overlook street, Jan. 11.

A covered dish dinner was served to members of the Golden Rule class of the St. Mark's Evangelical church yetserday when 23 members and 9 guests were present. Mrs. Jesse Steele led the devotions and Mrs Marshall Long was in charge of the business meeting.

Readings were offered by Mrs. Owen McCracken and Mrs. C. F. Sheriff gave readings. This was followed by a Christmas exchange. Mrs. Long, 99 Lida street, will be hostess to the group Jan. 11.

Mrs. Weston Cutter, 490 Park avenue west, was hostess yesterday to members of the Bethany Circle of the First Presbyterian church. She was assisted by Mrs. Philip Corey, Mrs. A. C. Lavender, Mrs. L. B. Paste, Mrs. L. W. Birch. Mrs. W. E Burleson, and Mrs. B. M Banks.

A one o'clock luncheon was served to 65 and Mrs. D. N. Roller presented a 1 act play, "Christmas At the Poor House." The next meeting will be Jan. 11 with Mrs C. O. Russell, 578 Coleman road. This will be a one o'clock luncheon.

Plans were made to give a Christmas basket to a family by members of the One Won One class of the United Presbyterian church last night when they met in the church parlors. A. E. Courtney was in charge of the business and Miss Martha McFarland led the devotions and read a Christmas story. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amsbaugh, R. F. Miller, and Mrs. William Ingram. The next meeting will be Jan. 11.

Mrs. Ernest Larson, Biglow road, Woodland, was hostess to members of the Pilgrim guild of the First Congregational church yesterday. Her assistant hostesses were Mrs. C. E. Flory, Mrs. Eloise Buchan, Mrs. R. N Campbell, Mrs. Ray Colwell, Mrs. T. E. Cropper, Mrs. Chester Ditwiler, Mrs. Herbert Schettler, Mrs. F. G. Hart and Mrs. M. A. Giles.

It was decided to contribute canned goods to the Community Christmas program being sponsored by The News-Journal. Mrs. F. A. Jones was program chairman and Mrs. H. H. Clinghan played several piano seletcions

An octet made up of Mrs. L. G. Bergstrom, Mrs F. A. Burger, Mrs. R. D. Lindsay, Mrs. Thorton Moore, Mrs. Ward Palmer, Mrs. H. M. Spandau, Mrs. Carl Walker, and Mrs. Paul Williams, presented musical numbers.

Mrs. F. A. Hoffman read a Christmas play, "The Seventh Christmas," by Conningsby Dawson. The next meeting will be Jan. 11 with Mrs F. R. Holibaugh.

Two classes of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church met yesterday. Mrs. Wayne Shambaugh was hostess to members of the Amoma class and she was assisted by Mrs. Russell Harbaugh, and Mrs. Leona Martlock.

This was a dinner meeting and a program of music and songs was followed by a gift exchange. Hostesses for the meeting on Jan. 18 will be Mrs. Gail Yontz, Mrs.

Plan Initiation Of 30 Candidates, Appoint Officers

Joan of Arc Circle, Daughters of Isabella, met last night in the Bird building club rooms for regular busines sand to lay plans for the initiation which will be held Jan. 9 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. At this time approximately 30 candidates will be inducted.

Mrs. Tom Gillin was appointed social chairman for the coming year, and Miss Mary Rizzo took the position of sick committee chairman. Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, regent, presided, and Miss Marie Wingert wa sobligated.

It was decided to contribute to the Community Christmas program which is being sponsored by The News-Journal in conjunction with other organizations, and a social hour followed.

The next meeting will be a social meeting preceded by a short business meeting Dec. 28 at the Bird building club rooms. Mrs. J. E. Marshall will be hostess.

CARE OF HUDSON SEAL

Hudson seal (dyed muskrat), makes one of the best wearing of fur coats. But this type of coat, like any other fur, requires care to give its owner the maximum of wear. Do not throw your Hudson fur coat carelessly over the back of a chair when you remove it. Always hang it at once on a shoulder hanger and put it in the clothes press. Protect it as much as possible from contact with rough fabric upholstery in the automobile. The best of care will not prevent your fur wrap from eventually wearing on the edges of the coat and cuffs, but it will prevent unreasonably quick deterioration in these vital parts.

R. D. Iden, Mrs. Floyd Dent, and Miss Fairy Vermilya.

Members of the Dorcas class were the guests of Mrs. H. F. Emerson, Fourth street, yesterday when Mrs. Glen Taylor led the devotions and Mrs. Mabel Sommers was in charge of the business.

Christmas carols were sung and contest prizes were won by Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Foster Dise, and Mrs. Oliver Kanarr. Mrs. J. W. Ness, 169 Bartley avenue, will be the Jan. 11 hostess.

TUESDAY BOOK CLUB, TOURISTS GROUP MEET

Review of "Men, Women and Tenors" Given by Mrs. George J. Searle—Mrs. W. S. Valmore Reads Christmas Story.

TWO of the leading study groups of Mansfield met yesterday for book reviews and a social hour. Members of the Tuesday Book club were the guests of Mrs. J. Rexford Small when she opened her home for the Dec. 14 meeting.

There were 18 members present and Mrs. Oliver Henkel, honorary member, was in attendance. Mrs. George J. Searle, jr., reviewed the book "Men, Women and Tenors" by Mme. France Alda. This is the blography of the singer's 22 years as a member of the staff of the Metropolitan opera.

Mrs. Roger Black had the book news for the meeting and she suggested various new titles to the members. Among the books mentioned were "Mme. Curie" by Eve. Curie. "Inside Europe" 1938 edition by Gunther, Harper's Encyclopedia of Arts, "Second Woollcott Reader," "Men and Music," and "Imperial City." Several children's books were: "Animals of the Bible" by Lathrop, and "Christmas Carols" by Henrick Van Loon.

The program for the next meeting, which will not be until after the holidays, will be announced later.

Mrs. R. F. Miller was hostess to members of the Tourist club yesterday when Mrs. W. S. Valmore read a Christmas story to the club. "Chistmas Carols of Other Lands" was the title of the paper read by Mrs. A. E. Merkel. Her talk was accompanied by dramatic illustrations of song given by Mrs. Charles Anglin.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. V. Gates, Dec 28, with Mrs. Ernest Ihrig and Mrs. William Jesson giving the program.

EMPLOYES PARTY

Employes of the Kresge store held a Christmas party recently at the Beveridge tea room. There was a Christmas exchange followed by bingo. Prize winners were Mr. and Mrs. Alan Frost, Edgar Giffin, and the Misses Naomi Kern, Mabel Haas, and Margaret Kobler.

Cleanliness Marches On.

Proof of progress in matters of cleanliness is to be found in comparing modern school requirements with those of a boarding school patronized by French nobility some 200 years ago, says a pamphlet published by Cleanliness bureau. In its catalog to parents of prospective female pupils it included the following astonishing information:

"Pupils are entitled to have one set of underclothing, one pair of stockings and two handkerchiefs per month. Towels: Pupils, one every week; nuns, one every two weeks. Foot baths: Pupils, one a month; nuns, only by special authorization of the superior. Complete baths: Three a year (May, June and July). Pupils unable to take their baths on the appointed day must wait until the following month."

Method of Picking All-Stars Criticized

Aiken, Edwards Reported to Have Engaged In Bitter Argument Over Selection of Coaches for Chain's Florida Team.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

DON'T take this All-Ohio scholastic eleven selected by a newspaper chain for a post-season game in Florida too seriously. While the All-Ohio named previously by the coaches association may have been subject to some criticism, it is generally accepted as the stronger eleven of the two. However, only two of the coaches All-Ohioans were picked for the Florida trip by the collegiate mentors who selected the team for the chain.

Of course, not all of the coaches' All-Ohioans were eligible for the Florida game. The rules under which the chain's team was selected demanded that the players be seniors and not participants in any other sport. John Hallabrin of Mansfield, who was selected on the coaches' All-Ohio, was eliminated because he participates in basketball. But there were other players named on the coaches' All-Ohio eligible for the Florida team who were not selected, we understand.

More than half of the players selected for the Florida trip were chosen from schools in the cities in which the chain operates newspapers. This does not necessarily mean that any preference was shown, but there is some suspicion.

* * * * *

Brown Rejected for Reasons Unknown.

THE two coaches—Bob Rettig of Toledo Scott and Angus King of Cincinnati Withrow—were selected from schools in which the chain operates. The selection of the coaches has probably resulted in more criticism than the choice of the players.

Failure to select Paul Brown of Massillon for one of the coaching assignments is the reason. Brown has compiled the outstanding coaching in the state, but he was not selected. Why he did not qualify is a secret, but we're sure it was not because he lacks coaching ability. His last two teams were awarded the mythical state championships, if you recall. Perhaps Brown's handicap is the fact that he is not coaching in a school in one of the chain cities.

The newspaper chain might also be criticized for leaving the responsibility of selecting the players and coaches in the hands of college mentors, who know nothing at all about the various players except what they hear. A more suitable method would have been to have a board of high school coaches from various sections of the state select the players.

Plenty of politics were involved in the selection of the coaches, we understand. We hear that Jimmy Aikens of Akron and Bill Edwards of Western Reserve, members of the board, engaged in a bitter argument over the selection of the Florida coaches.

It is said that the argument started when Aiken proposed the name of Brown as one of the two all-star team coaches. Edwards objected to Browns' selection, it was learned. Aiken persisted in his belief that Brown's sensational coaching record entitled him to one of the two coaching positions.

* * * * *

Did Politics Influence Selections?

ACCORDING to a version of the story, effort was made to get Aiken to change his vote to King so that it could be reported the Cincinnatian was elected unanimously. This the Akron U. mentor refused to do, allegedly declaring that he was under the impression that the selection was to be devoid of politics and prejudice.

Edward's objection to Brown was not revealed, but it is reported that the Reserve mentor sought the Massillon post when Brown was selected. There is also some talk that Edwards resents the fact that few of the Massillon players enroll at Reserve.

BRUSHES UP ON DEFENSE

Tyger Team Works In Zone In Preparation For Shelby Game.

Preparations for the first road assignment of the new season are in full swing at Mansfield high school.

Although satisfied with the performance of the Tygers last week, Coach Russ Murphy does not believe that the club has shown its full strength.

Murphy does not plan any lineup changes in an attempt to strengthen the Tygers. He is more interested in development of more co-ordination in the present first-string line-up.

There is a possibility that the Tygers will present a new defense in Shelby, where they play Saturday night. They operated a man-to-man defense in the first two games, but Murphy is experimenting with a zone this week.

Murphy has not announced that this is the defense the Tygers will employ, but due to the size of the Shelby court, it is likely that they will abandon the man-to-man for this game at least. The zone is usually more effective on a small court.

It is also obvious in drills this week that Murphy is preparing for the mid-season graduation of Freddy Lewis, a forward. Jack Dugger and Dave Shelly are seeing plenty of service in drills this week at the forwards.

The Tygers are idle Friday night.

Whippets Play Tonight, Friday and Saturday.

SHELBY — The Whippets of Shelby high school will endeavor to chalk up their first basketball triumph of the season tonight when they invade Willard. Shelby has bowed to Norwalk and Bellevue.

The game tonight will be the first of three for the Whippets this week. They travel to Galion to open their N. C. O. schedule Friday and are host to Mansfield Saturday.

Engages Madison

Ontario Faces Another Tough Obstacle Friday Night In County Contest.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE march of Ontario high towards its second straight Richland county basketball league championship faces another tough obstacle Friday night when it entertains the Rams of Madison in this week's top attraction.

Another melee creating considerable interest among the league followers will see the twice-victorious Butler quintet playing hosts to the dangerous Lucas combine. The other circuit tilt on tap throws Lexington's Minutemen against Union at Union. Both clubs will be seeking their first league victory.

Disposes of Pair.

Coach Orville Kibler's fast-stepping aggregation, paced by Matt Hager and Dick Casad, veterans from last year's crack squad, has already disposed of two rivals. The Ontarioans defeated Lexington and Lucas.

In Madison, the champions face a club that has yet to click. In its opening game, Coach Al Fendrick's team got off to a rousing start by walloping Bellville, but against Butler last week was unable to open up.

If Madison finds itself Friday it may cause the Ontario machine no little trouble. Fendrick has Gene Harmon, Joe Miller and Bill Wilkins back from last season's runner-up team, and Friday may be the time it hits its stride.

Butler, riding in first place along with Ontario, faces trouble in the Lucas machine. Lucas has chalked up three victories and suffered a setback. Paced by the sensational Tom Greulich, the Lucas team presents a high-scoring machine that so far this season has been held in check only once. Greulich last week scored 26 of Lucas' 40 points against Bellville.

Neither Has Won.

Neither Lexington nor Union has been able to do any damage yet, but one of the clubs will hop into the win column this week. The Minutemen's advantage will be in their height.

Butler also goes into action Saturday night when it invades Bellville for a league tilt.

Buckeye Coaches Favor New Rules

Conference Cage Mentors Believe Eliminating Jump Increases Value of Clever Ball Handling, More Evenly Fought Contests.

By TOMMY DEVINE

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Buckeye conference basketball coaches are overwhelmingly in favor of the new court rules which eliminate the center jump, a survey completed by the United Press revealed.

A premium on team play, the increased value of clever ball handling, a reward for superb conditioning, reduction of the effectiveness of a zone defense and more evenly fought contests were advanced as reasons for approval of the new code.

The most enthusiastic coach for the new rules was genial John Mauer of Miami. "I'm entirely in favor of the new rules because I have material that is admirably suited to play the type of game the code demands," he said. "I have two teams of almost equal strength and this permits me to substitute freely as the increased speed of the game demands. Elimination of the center jump has put a premium on ball handling and finesse."

Ray Detrick, the highly successful young Ohio Wesleyan coach, whose teams annually are among the state's strongest combines, believes the greatest thing the center jump elimination has accomplished is the reduction of the effectiveness of zone defense.

Hits Zone Defense.

"For a time the zone threatened to take a strangle-hold on basketball and destroy much of its attractiveness," he stated. "The new rules have opened up the game considerably and to my mind the zone no longer is a good defensive weapon. Teams that are to be successful now must develop reserve strength for I believe the days of "iron men" playing without relief game after game are over."

Detrick's one complaint against the altered rules are that they penalize a team for scoring. He suggests teams be given alternate possession of the ball after each field goal and put it in play from the center of the court instead of from beneath the basket.

One coach who expressed a bit of doubt regarding the "streamlined" game now in vogue was Brandon T. Grover of Ohio university.

"If I thought the game was going to be as fast as early season contests indicate I wouldn't favor it," Grover said, "however, I believe before the campaign has progressed very far you will find teams slowing up considerably and playing just as deliberately as many formerly did."

The only Buckeye conference coach who has used a zone defense is calm-like Cam Henderson, who guided his Marshall college team to a share of the league title a year ago.

"I haven't had much of a chance to observe how the new rules will work," he said, "but I guess they will be all right. I think the zone defense still has value and I have no idea of abandoning it."

Pays Dividends.

Walter Van Winkle, the new University of Cincinnati coach, favored the rule change on the grounds it paid dividends to teams well-schooled in fundamentals.

With a medium sized group of boys to work with, Joe Holsinger of the University of Dayton gave the code his approval and termed the elimination of the center jump "a great equalizer of teams."

Chuckovits 41 Points' Bring New Laurels.

Charles (Chuck) Chuckovits, brilliant Toledo university forward who holds the Ohio all-time collegiate scoring honors for one season, bid today for national intercollegiate single game laurels after looping 41 points against Adrian (Mich.) college.

The junior paced his teammates to a lopsided 84 to 18 victory over the Michigan quintet here last night. The Rockets enjoyed a 36 to 4 half-time advantage. Chuckovits caged 17 field goals and seven free throws to eclipse the 34-point total amassed by Leroy Edwards, of Kentucky university, against Creighton university in 1935.

Leads League In Statistics

Detroit First In Seven Departments of Play.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The Detroit Lions, who finished in a second-place tie with the Green Bay Packers in the western division of the National pro football league race, led the circuit in seven departments of play, according to final statistics. The champion Washington Redskins led in five departments, while the Packers set the pace in four departments.

The Lions repeated last year's accomplishments in three of their seven "firsts"—in yards gained rushing with 2,074; in fewest fumbles with 17; in touchdowns runs with 19. Detroit also suffered the fewest yards lost by penalties with 139.

The Redskins, with their great star, Sammy Baugh, doing most of the aerial work led the league in the number of forward passes, 222; completed forwards, 99; and best forward passing average, 44.5 per cent.

The Packers paced the circuit in yards gained by passing with a total of 1,398 and also in total yards gained with 3,201. Green Bay also led, for the second straight year, in points after touchdowns with 26. The Chicago Bears made the most touchdowns via the aerial route, 17.

ADVOCATE CHANGE IN PASSING RULES

CHICAGO—(AP)—Legislation is needed to stop the "merciless, reckless punishment" of forward passers in college football games, Clark Shaughnessy, head coach at the University of Chicago, declared today.

Shaughnessy will advocate changes in the rules at the meeting of America's gridiron coaches at New Orleans Dec. 28 to bring about action to protect the passers. He will propose that passes be permitted from any point behind the line of scrimmage as allowed in professional football instead of compelling the college player to toss his shots from at least five yards back of the scrimmage line. If a passer is trapped, he may be forced to run 10 to 15 yards back, subjecting him to even more dangerous punishment, before throwing.

The kindly, considerate Shaughnessy, one of the oldest coaches in point of service now in the game, brands the punishment a youngster must face in the modern game as "nothing short of murder."

"That's what it is—just plain murder," Shaughnessy said. "Sometimes half a team comes charging in with the speed of an express train and knocks the passer flatter than a pancake."

Drawing diagrams, Shaughnessy showed that if a passer in a collegiate game were allowed to fire his shots anywhere behind the line of scrimmage he would be in less danger of injury. Shaughnessy pointed out that if a passer could throw two or three yards back of the line, the ends and other chargers, circling to reach him, could no more than push him down rather than charge him violently.

Chicago Has Inside Track on Title Brawl.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Don't breathe it to a soul, but Chicago has the inside track on the championship brawl between Max Schmeling and Joe Louis next June, with Detroit running a spirited second.

The near-capacity crowd that turned out to watch Schmeling paralyze Harry Thomas at the Garden night before last did not cause Promoter Mike Jacobs to turn any handsprings. What Mike and his keen-eyed advisors noted was the fact that the well-heeled Jewish population, with only a few notable exceptions, was not at the ringside.

Radio station WCLE has signed exclusive contract to air the Cleveland Indians home games next year, Jack Graney of WHK, WCLE sister station, will continue as the announcer.

THEATER

FILMLAND chatter—Carol Lombard and Fred MacMurray were put to the test recently by Director Wesley Ruggles in a dive-into-the-mountain-lake scene in the filming of "True Confession." . . . The water was cold and the movie team hesitated to make the plunge, but Ruggles coaxed them in by donning a swimming suit and going in the icy pool himself. . . . Add strange requests: the man who did the role of an engineer in a current Hollywood production was offered anything within reason that he desired . . . he requested the black wig and mustache he wore in the picture. . . . Joel McCrea and Frances Dee (Mrs. McCrea in private life) are launching a new Christmas card idea . . . the couple is sending penny postcards bearing the holiday message and a note explaining that the difference saved between the postals and an elaborate greeting card will be donated to charities.

"Conquest."

Greta Garbo and Charles Boyer, co-starred in "Conquest," the romantic story of Napoleon Bonaparte and the woman he loved, comes to the Ohio theater Thursday. In the picture Miss Garbo plays the role of the beautiful Countess Walewska who forsakes her home and her husband in an heroic attempt to win over Napoleon and thus save the life of her country (Poland). Boyer, the French actor, portrays Bonaparte. It is Miss Garbo's first picture since she played with Robert Taylor in "Camille." Others in the cast are Reginald Owen, Alan Marshal, Henry Stephenson and Leif Erickson. "Nothing Sacred," co-starring Carol Lombard and Fredric March is the feature through today.

Film Sleuths Back.

Inspector Oscar Piper, the cigar-chewing police detective, and Hildegarde Withers, his inquisitive schoolmarm assistant, returns to the screen at the Madison today in "Forty Naughty Girls," with James Gleason and Zazu Pitts in the leading roles. The film follows their adventures as they attempt to track down a murderer in a theater. The two attend a show and are called in to help solve a killing, before they actually get started another crime is committed before their eyes. Supporting them are Marjorie Lord, Joan Woodbury, George Shelley and Alan Edwards.

Has Three Leading Men.

Annabella, new European star, makes her debut in "Dinner at the Ritz," with Paul Lukas, David Niven and Romney Brent in the principal supporting roles. The film, current attraction at the Majestic, pictures Annabella as the daughter of a world-famous banker who is found mysteriously killed. The police call it a suicide and his bank fails. The girl is forced to sell her home and decides to set out to discover who or what was responsible for her father's death. Brent plays the role of a wise-cracking American newspaper reporter who follows her around, while Niven and Lukas battle it out for romantic honors. The Jones family in "Borrowed Trouble," completes the screen entertainment.

Air Duel in Western Film.

An air duel between two airplanes, culminating in a crash and a stampeding herd are among the action scenes in "Hollywood Cowboy," at the Ritz theater. George O'Brien and Cecilia Parker head the cast. O'Brien is seen as a movie cowboy who joins a real round-up, is mistaken for a bandit and ends up by capturing an entire gang of racketeers who have been victimizing ranchers. "Night Must Fall," with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell, is the No. 2 picture on the twin-bill program playing through Thursday.

Harness Rule Changes Loom

COLUMBUS — (AP) — America's three horse trotting and pacing parent associations, the United, American and National, moved forward on a country-wide front today toward four important changes in 1938 harness racing rules.

Discard the "money-won" system of classification, and set up a combination "win-race time" and "money-won" plan of rating horses; eliminate separate registrations with each of the three bodies; demand registration of all trotters and pacers with the American Trotting Register association; urge widespread use of the new "parade" starting system.

INMATES TRIM HI-NOTES

Calhoun Leads Reformatory to 43-22 Court Triumph.

The Inmates of the Reformatory chalked up another basketball victory last night by smothering the Mansfield Hi-Notes, 43 to 22, at the institution. After being held at a 7-all deadlock in the opening frame, the Inmates spurted to take a lead they never relinquished. Calhoun set the individual pace with 13 points, and Wentz was high for the losers with eight.

TAX SWITCHING CONTINUES TO DOMINATE MART

Dealers Buy In Small Quantities as Leaders Edge Up Fractions to Point.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stocks edged a little higher in today's market with leaders marked up fractions to around a point.

Tax switching continued to dominate dealings, brokers said. Activity was only moderate. Buyers appeared to want shares in small quantities only and there were few large blocks exchanged.

Announcement the American export line would spend $5,000,000 for equipment for an ocean airplane service helped aircraft shares.

Bonds, including U. S. government issues, were uneven in a narrow range.

Board room analysts, studying developments for market trend hints, noted the suggestion of "Iron Age" that during the year's final week steel business "may be accumulated that will start operations off in January at moderately above the present level."

"American metal market" likewise said the present levling off of the rate of decline in output was a "promising symptom."

The Edison Electric institute reported electric power output for the week ended Dec. 11 had increased more than seasonally expected.

SURVIVORS TELL STORY OF PANYA SINKING BY JAPS

Two Victims Say Gunboat Was Bombed 12 Times; Flags 'Plainly Visible.'

ing down is something I never want to hear again.

Swims to Shore.

When the final moment came, I was helping some Chinese into a sampan (a river boat). I myself jumped into the water and reached the shore.

It was not until I got ashore that I knew I was wounded. I am deeply indebted to Hodge. It was when I met him that I realized I had been hit. Hodge had his pockets stuffed with first aid equipment, which he had thought, under the fire of the planes, to get so he could aid any wounded he found.

Hodge insisted that I take off my shirt so he could see what was wrong. He found a wound in the left shoulder and poured lysol in it.

Vines joined Hodge and myself and we walked to Taiping. There we found an abandoned mission. A Japanese officer came along and gave us food but I was too sick to eat. Then a Japanese army truck took us to Wuhu, where the plane picked us up.

Nanking Serves as Japs Headquarters.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Gen. Iwane Matsui, conqueror of Nanking, was reported today to be setting up a headquarters in the fallen city from which to direct efforts of the Japanese armies to pierce the interior of China.

While the Japanese celebrated capture of the evacuated capital, an army of its erstwhile defenders estimated by Chinese sources at 140,000 men dug i. at Puchen, about five miles northwest of Nanking, for further combat.

The Chinese forces were reported throwing up fortifications along the Tientsin-Pukow railway, across the Yangtze river from Nanking.

Japanese forces still were mopping up in the war-ravaged city, according to the meager advices filtering through to Shanghai, and the casualties of the hand-to-hand struggle for Nanking apparently were enormous.

Word was still awaited regarding 15 Americans who remained in Nanking through the four-day assault on the city's walls and the bloody street combat that preceded Monday's formal announcement of Japanese victory.

Japanese authorities, however, notified United States naval officials at Shanghai that two American newspaper men and a newsreel cameraman were safe at Nanking and might proceed to Shanghai on a Japanese gunboat.

These were C. Yates McDaniel of the Associated Press, Tillman Durdin of the New York Times and Arthur Menken of Paramount newsreel.

U. S. Dissatisfied With Jap 'Regrets.'

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The United States government waited today for Japan to make another and better attempt to settle the international incident caused by the sinking of the American gunboat Panay by Japanese airplanes.

Frankly dissatisfied with the apologies and offers of indemnity contained in a note received from the Japanese foreign office through American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in Tokyo yesterday, President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull awaited a direct and categorical reply to their demands for "satisfaction."

The note received from Foreign Minister Koki Hirota was prepared and handed to Grew before the president's demands, which he requested be brought to the personal attention of Emperor Hirohito, and the stiffly worded note from Hull had been filed with the foreign office. It was not considered a reply, but a communication hastily dispatched in anticipation of the American demands.

Hull indicated something more than the assurances contained in Hirotas note would be required to satisfy this government.

Where's Money?

For 53 years a trusted secretary in the employ of the Crane plumbing family, Howard P. Bishop, 75, created a sensation at a federal bankruptcy hearing in Chicago when he allegedly confessed he embezzled $450,000 belonging to a daughter of the late multi-millionaire, Richard Crane. Bishop was quoted by police as saying he diverted the money, in cash and securities, from the safe deposit box of Mrs. Emily Chadbourne, elderly Crane heiress of Kingston, N. Y.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.)—Actual trading in wool on the Boston market was very light yesterday. Confidence in current, nominal quotations on domestic wools, however, appeared to be increasing. This was indicated on some grades by a narrowing range between bids and asking prices with bids being raised while asking prices were mostly holding steady. A bid of 29 cents in the grease has been refused for a sizeable amount of graded combing quarter blood wools of the Ohio, Michigan and Indiana type. Offerings were quoted mostly 30 to 32 cents in the grease with quantities offered on the low side of the range rather limited.

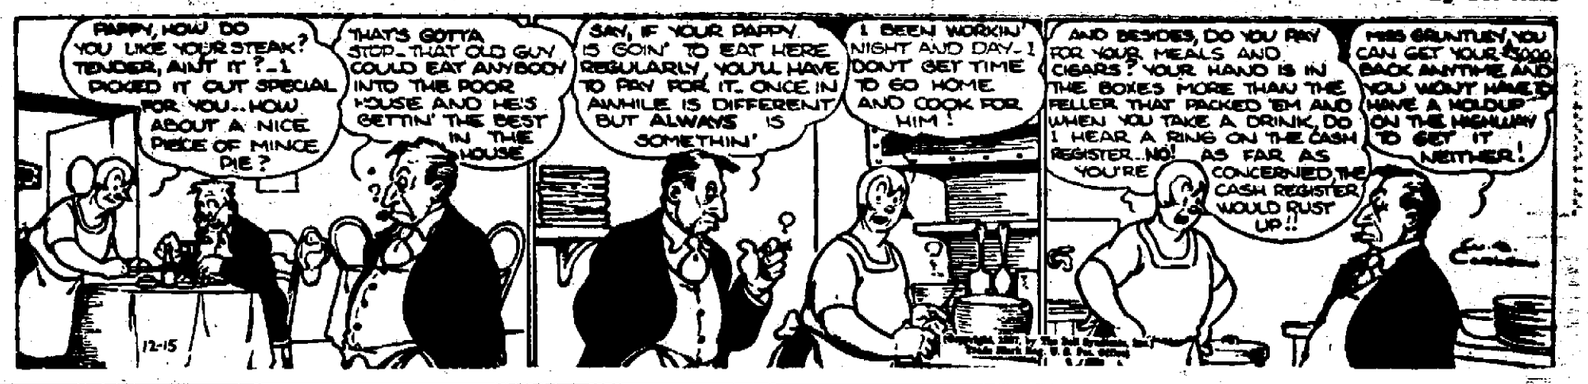
THE GUMPS—Partners. By Sol Hess



PAPPY, HOW DO YOU LIKE YOUR STEAK? TENDER, AIN'T IT?-I PICKED IT OUT SPECIAL FOR YOU--HOW ABOUT A NICE PIECE OF MINCE PIE?
THAT'S GOTTA STOP-THAT OLD GUY COULD EAT ANYBODY INTO THE POOR HOUSE AND HE'S GETTIN' THE BEST IN THE HOUSE
SAY, IF YOUR PAPPY IS GOIN' TO EAT HERE REGULARLY, YOU'LL HAVE TO PAY FOR IT. ONCE IN AWHILE IS DIFFERENT BUT ALWAYS IS SOMETHIN'
I BEEN WORKIN' NIGHT AND DAY-I DON'T GET TIME TO GO HOME AND COOK FOR HIM!
AND BESIDES, DO YOU PAY FOR YOUR MEALS AND CIGARS? YOUR HAND IS IN THE BOXES MORE THAN THE FELLER THAT PACKED 'EM AND WHEN YOU TAKE A DRINK, DO I HEAR A RING ON THE CASH REGISTER--NO! AS FAR AS YOU'RE CONCERNED, THE CASH REGISTER WOULD RUST UP!!
MISS GRUNTLEY, YOU CAN GET YOUR $5000 BACK ANYTIME AND YOU WON'T HAVE TO HOLD UP ON THE HIGHWAY TO GET IT NEITHER!

DIXIE DUGAN—Who Wins? By J. P. McEvoy and J. B. Striebel

(SOB)—THEY THINK I'M A THIEF—(SOB)—I—I'VE GOT TO GET OUT OF HERE—(SOB)—
I DIDN'T BELIEVE MY DAUGHTER WHEN SHE ACCUSED MISS DUGAN OF STEALING MY PEARLS BUT NOW I KNOW MISS DUGAN IS DISHONEST
I STILL CAN'T BELIEVE MY EYES!—YET THERE SHE WAS—TAKING MOTHER'S BONDS FROM THE SAFE.
SO—THEY CAUGHT HER REPLACING THE BONDS I STOLE.
YES—THE BONDS SHE STOLE TO PLANT IN DIXIE'S ROOM—JUST AS SHE DID WITH HER MOTHERS PEARLS!-WELL-AT LAST SHE'S GOTTEN RID OF DIXIE!!

BRICK BRADFORD—Adrift in an Atom. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

WITH BEO HOLDING A GUN TO BRICK'S HEAD, ULA SUDDENLY TURNS TO BRADFORD AND SAYS—IN HER NATIVE TONGUE—
UKA BEPPA TEP ZIWA AH YAH SACHA UPALAK TAKU!
THIS MEANS—"PRESS THE RIGHT FRONT PEDAL, AT ONCE!"—BEO, WHO CANNOT UNDERSTAND THIS LANGUAGE, BECOMES ALARMED
STOP THAT! OR I'LL BLOW THE TOP OF YOUR HEAD OFF, BRADFORD!
IN OBEDIENCE TO ULA'S ORDER, BRICK PRESSES HIS FOOT ON THE RIGHT FRONT PEDAL
HEY! THE FLOOR! IT'S OPENING! HEY!

MICKEY MOUSE—A Decree of Death. By Walt Disney

DUKE VARLOTT GIVES HIS ULTIMATUM: MICKEY MUST EITHER LEAVE MEDIOKA AT ONCE OR BE BURIED THERE!
I TELL YOU, I WON'T DO IT! I'LL TELL THE TRUTH! I'LL EXPOSE YOU FOR THE TRAITOR YOU ARE!
OH, NO, YOU WON'T BECAUSE ZAT WOULD EXPOSE YOU AS ZE IMPOSTOR YOU ARE!
I WOULD TELL ZE PEOPLE ZAT YOU KILLED KING MICHAEL TO GAIN ZE THRONE! HOW COULD YOU PROVE OTHERWISE? ZEY WOULD BELIEVE ME--- NOT YOU!
I'M NOT AFRAID! I'M WILLING TO GAMBLE! THEY MIGHT BELIEVE ME!
EVEN SO, IT WOULD DO YOU NO GOOD! REMEMBER ZE LAW OF MEDIOKA!

COUPLE SEEKS TO ADOPT CHILD

Mansfielders Appeal Through Classified Column For 'Little Girl.'

they want some little girl who may enjoy these things along with the comforts of a good home and adequate training.

Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Geiselman, own a large farm in Wayne county and it is here that the pony is kept along with the riding horses belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Davis. Mrs. Davis is an expert horsewoman and has ridden in the Wayne county fair on several occasions.

During the period that Mr. and Mrs. Davis have sought to adopt a child they have applied at the Children's Home, the courthouse, the jail, and to all their friends and acquaintances for assistance. They have never made application at any out-of-town home or organization, because they want a Mansfield child, Davis says.

"We are able to provide references of all kinds, and we have already served the six month probation period necessary for adoption," Davis added.

He is a meat-cutter at the Cut-Rate Fruit Market, 201 East Fourth street, and plans to take over the operation of the meat department of the store after the first of the year.

"We feel that in a good home and nice surroundings, any little girl would grow up to be a fine woman," he says. "I have proof of that. My own father adopted two children. One of them is a well-established citizen in Buffalo and the other is a happily and successfully married Mansfield housewife."

MEET TOMORROW

SHELBY — The subject, "Influences in American Literature," will be discussed tomorrow evening at the regular monthly session of the American Association for University Women to be held at the home of Mrs. William B. Douglass, 57 Marvin avenue. A pot-luck supper will be held at 6 p. m. with a program, including papers to be read by Zorayda Sheets and Luella Kuhn, to be featured.

HEATING

Costs should not be figured by "how much per ton of coal," but how much for winter comfort. Quality fuel is most economical.

FARM LABORER EARNS LOWEST WORKER'S PAY

Department of Agriculture Estimates $300 as Yearly Average For Hands.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Farm laborers are the lowest-paid class of workers in America, a department of agriculture survey revealed today.

Annual earnings range from $62 to $748 a year among groups surveyed and average approximately $300. Average farm wages in many localities were found to be less than 50 cents a day.

The department estimated there are 2,500,000 persons engaged as farm laborers. An intensive personal canvass was made of laborers in 11 counties in as many states in representative sections of the country.

Investigators went into the heart of the corn belt, the wheat belt, the cattle and sheep country, into tobacco, cotton, fruit and dairy regions. The survey included part-time as well as permanent employes.

Lag In Farm Wages.

Farm wages, although they have increased 50 per cent since 1932, have not risen as rapidly as farm income and city wage earnings, the survey said. Compared with other wage-earning groups farm laborers receive 20 per cent less than they did in the five years before 1929.

"In 1936, income from farm production, including benefit payments, averaged 130 per cent of pre-war, non-farm income averaged 148 per cent, but farm wages instead of rising to a comparable level rose only to 107 per cent," the survey said.

The average age of farm laborers is increasing, the report concluded. Whereas young men previously dominated, the average age of farm "hired help" now is about 35 years. One-third were past 40 and in some areas men past 60 were found working in fields at 50 cents a day.

Female southern cotton pickers were the lowest paid class, earning an average of $62 a year. Male cotton pickers in Louisiana earned an average of $178 a year. Oriental workers in California reported the highest average income, $748 a year.

Average earnings of southern workers interviewed were only slightly more than half the earnings of northern workers. In no southern county was the annual earnings as much as $100 per person. Northern workers received an average income of $140 per person, which included all members of the family.

PIKE FLOPS INTO BOAT

WEST BRANCH, Mich.—(U.P.)—A 28-inch great northern pike lost its life through greediness. Edward Schlegel, East Toledo, O., fishing in Long lake near here, was pulling a bluegill into his boat when a pike broke water and leaped for it. The pike landed into the boat. Schlegel kept both fish.

California Floods Take Heavy Toll of Damage

View of inundated highway

When King Winter cut loose with a terrific barrage of the elements along the west coast, floods, rain and wind storms combined to exact a heavy toll of damage from California towns and cities, inundating highways, cutting off communication lines and seriously affecting the fruit crop. This view was taken at Healdsburg, near San Francisco, in one of the hardest hit districts.

Confesses, Then Denies She Aided Husband Kill Self

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Martha Foster first confessed and then denied that she had helped her aged and crippled husband kill himself with a razor.

Chief of Police Harold Mady said the 60-year-old woman told him that she found her husband sitting on the floor, with his wrists cut, that he "held up his bloody hands and asked me to finish the job, so I picked up the razor and cut both sides of his throat thinking I was doing him a great favor to put him out of his misery."

Later, Mrs. Foster told Sheriff Guy Palagi that her confession was false.

The sheriff said he would recommend that she be given a sanity test.

Foster had bled to death before Dr. B. A. Place arrived. Neighbors heard the elderly man scream and called the doctor.

The earliest record of shorthand dates from 63 B. C.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, worried or over-tired, stomach acids often are over-abundant. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, sourness, distress, pain of sour stomach. You eat, and eat, and never get over it.

Doctor's say, take a laxative—but stomach pills, it is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Mell-ans for indigestion to make the sourest stomach foods harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and set you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Mell-ans. 25c indigestion. Mell overproduces, get Mell-ans 25c.

PUSHES DRIVE ON OLD TAXES

County Files 3 More Suits of Foreclosure, Seeks Total of $2,238.

Richland county's drive to collect delinquent real estate taxes was continued today with the filing of three foreclosure suits for a total of $2,238 in common pleas court by Atty. Marshall C. Moore, special assistant prosecutor.

The petitions, filed in behalf of County Treasurer John E. Kolb, involve three properties in Mansfield and a fourth in Shelby.

The largest amount asked is $1,315, allegedly due in back taxes on two Mansfield lots. Carl Lamneck, the Mansfield Building and Loan association and others are named defendants in the action.

A suit against George Scott and the Mansfield Building and Loan association seeks foreclosure on lot 791, Mansfield, to collect $608, and the other action is for $315, due on three acres in Shelby owned by Rosa E. Rhine. The Shelby First National bank, which claims an interest in the property, is made a defendant in the suit, along with Clerk of Courts Fred R. Zellner, who has a claim for court fees against the owner.

The American soda fountain is becoming popular in Canada, South America, and Australia.

LIFER SAVES UP

Oldest Convict, 87, Says He's Going to Buy Ranch.

SALEM, Ore.—(U.P.)—George W. "Granddaddy" Webber, 87, oldest inmate of the Oregon state penitentiary and serving a life sentence, is saving his pennies to buy a chicken ranch when he is released. Officials have told him he will be freed when he reaches the age of 100, and Webber believes the time will come when he owns that chicken ranch.

110 FAMILIES EVICTED, NONE LAND IN STREET

That's What Year's Record of Many Court Shows; Attaches Help Find New Quarters.

One hundred and ten families have been evicted by actions filed in municipal court this year, court records showed today, but not one has been moved out of their dwellings without the prospects of shelter.

Had some of these cases occurred in other cities, the families would have been literally moved out into the street, but not in Mansfield, August Schultz, court bailiff, contends.

"Rather than force people and their possessions out on the sidewalk, with no immediate prospects of shelter, we have made it a policy to first help them locate new quarters or work out some temporary agreement with the landlord," Schultz says.

Hunt Shelter.

In this respect, the bailiff's duties and those of Mrs. Freda Gorby, deputy clerk, have approximated welfare duties. They have spent many hours finding shelter for families on whom they have served eviction notices. These duties are not required by the court, since sheltering evicted is not its obligation, Schultz explained.

In eviction cases, a minimum of 20 days is given a family to move. First the deputy clerk issues the three day written notice, a petition is filed within a week, and the family then has ten days in which to vacate.

P. T. A. To Hold Mother-Daughter Dinner Thursday

A mother-daughter banquet and Christmas party will be held Thursday evening at the Senior high school under the sponsorship of the school's Parent-Teacher association.

A dinner will be served in the cafeteria at 6:15 p. m. and will be followed at 8 p. m. with a program in the auditorium.

During the dinner talks will be given by Miss Margaret West, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., and by officers of the P. T. A. Music will be furnished by Kathleen MacIntosh, vocal soloist, and a vocal trio comprised of Sue Belle Paste, Doris Marshall, and Kathryn Fighter.

At 8 p. m. a program will be presented in the auditorium and will be open to the public. The guest speaker will be Miss Florence LaGanke, a home economics consultant from Cleveland, and former home economics editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Other numbers on the program will be an acrobatic dance by Mildred Wappner, and violin selections by S. K. Jorgenson, director of the Senior high school orchestra.

In charge of arrangements for the affair are Miss Mary Elizabeth Walker, decorations, Miss Marjorie Campbell, programs, Miss Margaret Clapsaddle, tickets, Mrs. Sherman Glessner, auditorium program, J. Merton Holcombe, music, and Mrs. Willis Wygant and Mrs. C. C. Walker, hostesses.

SWINDLER USES SMILE

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER VII

Karen looked at Roxanne gravely. "Bill's parents have got to learn to live without him! They've had him all his life and loved him, too. You belong with his parents now. They need you now. You can't give up as long as somebody needs you, Roxanne. It doesn't take long to get to Richmond and those two older people need you. Let me send them a telegram and pack your bag and you see the station."

"Do you think..."

She nodded. "I know!"

"But my job! I'll lose my job." Several times, the sound of her small blue slippers cushioned by the rug, she walked from the sofa to the window. Then she looked back at Karen. "Can you sing? It's not so much singing as putting a song over and making 'em think you feel what you're singing, and mean it. Last Saturday night I sang happy songs because Bill was there. And I was happy." Don't think. Don't remember. You don't dare remember...

Karen frowned as a new panic seized her. "I used to sing at parties in Harriston but I can't ...I couldn't..."

"There's a job in it for you if you can. My job. It isn't bad. I—I hate to lose it. If you take it, you can step out when I get back!"

"You will go to Richmond?"

She nodded. "I'll go if you'll see Sam Kasten this afternoon and tell him you'd like to take my place. He'll give you a try-out. He'll give you a chance. You've got looks..."

Karen looked away. Again her pride stung. Singing in a night club, when she had come to New York to be a great actress. But Roxanne had asked a favor.

"I can try."

Half an hour later they were on their way to the station in a taxi.

Standing at the gates, a small blond girl in a new blue suit and beige hat, Roxanne looked at Karen. Her eyes were drowning in her tears. It was the first time she had cried. After a little while she managed to speak.

"Move into my place, Karen. It's bigger. Don't try to see Sam Kasten until this afternoon. There's a rehearsal. I don't know how long I'll be gone. I'll stay as long as they need me." Her bright mouth trembled. "Funny what you said about not giving up as long as somebody needed you. You're going on trial today and so am I. You see, they weren't keen about me. Bill's parents, I mean. Their only boy and—and a girl who sings in a night club. Can't blame them much." As the gates opened, she gripped Karen's hand. "Thanks for—for everything."

"I've done nothing, Roxanne."

Back in her room, Karen put her hands against her flushed face and thought, "I can't do it! I shouldn't have promised. I'll make a fool of myself!" But Roxanne had asked her to keep her job for her. "You can't give up as long as somebody needs you."

Karen tried to think reasonably. Imagine you are back in Harriston at one of the Saturday night parties and you've been asked to sing. They always said, "Oh, come on, Karen. Give us one of those low blues numbers." Often as they rode at night Jerry had said, "There's a new song. I don't know the words. Sing it for me, Karen."

She had to imagine that she was back in Harriston! Glimpsing her face in the mirror, she saw that her mouth wore a bitter smile. She had come to New York to be a great actress and now she was going to try to get a job singing heart-break songs on a hotel roof. And one night, because it seemed to be a place where he went, Philip would come and see her...

But there was no time to think or plan. Seeing her unfinished letter to Jerry, she crumpled it slowly and dropped it in the basket beside the desk. She couldn't admit defeat.

The tailored gray suit she had worn so much was warm. Quickly she changed into a simple black dress, a small black hat, painted her mouth, and looked through the dresser for a pair of clean white gloves. All at once she thought of Philip again with bitterness. "I'm not defeated yet. I'll get there yet, Philip. I'll make you so proud of me you'll come to me I'm doing this for Roxanne who has lost everything she believed in."

At the hotel she asked the elevator operator for Mr. Kasten. "He's on roof," she was told. "They're rehearsing."

There was no time to think or plan, for when she stepped off the elevator, she was in the large room where she had danced with Bill McGrath not many nights ago. The men in the orchestra were in their shirt sleeves. The leader was mopping his brow. She scarcely recognized the tango dancers in street clothes. But standing only a few feet away from her was a short, stout man with thin dark hair and small dark eyes. Puffing on a strong cigar, he was silently watching the entertainers.

While the tango dancers were arguing with the orchestra leader, Karen went to the short stout man.

"Mr. Kasten?" she asked. Turning, he scowled at her. But she continued, "I'm a friend of Miss Dell. She—she had to leave town today hurriedly. You may have seen the papers.. The young man who disappeared off a ship near Miami was the man she was going to marry. She went to see his parents." Her breath seemed short.

She paused a moment and then said. "I'd like to take her place while she's away."

Sam Katsen took the cigar from his mouth and squinted his small dark eyes. Then he looked Karen up and down, beginning with the small black slippers that had walked so many miles.

"You mean the young fellow who waited for Miss Dell after the show?" he asked in a thick heavy voice. Karen nodded.

Kasten placed the cigar between his teeth, chewed on it, and wagged his head. "That's tough — tough on her." His shrewd little eyes appraised her coldly again. "Did she tell you.."

"She told me to ask you to give me a chance."

"Any experience?"

Should she lie? "No," Karen said. "Only at amateur things but I'm sure I can..."

Sam Kasten raised his hand and his voice. "Say, wait a minute. Keep quiet."

Every one looked at Karen.

But Sam Kasten was thinking of tonight's show, a show without a singer. He could call an agency and get a girl in fifteen minutes but the girl would be a Broadway type, a little blonde like Roxanne. The better places were going in for "class" and the public was getting tired of synthetic blonds. This girl probably couldn't sing but was young and beautiful. She was not a Broadway type. She had "class." Oh, well, give her a break and if she clicked...

"Okay," he said. Looking across the wide room, lovely at night with dim lights and the colors of women's dresses, ugly in the daytime glare, he called to the orchestra leader, "I'm giving the young lady an audition, George."

He glanced at Karen. "What's your name?"

"Karen Mallare."

"Let's see what you can do."

She felt his shrewd eyes follow her as she went to the orchestra. She saw the young man who played the saxophone smile, saw the eyes of the tango dancers sweep over her. Forget them! Think you are back in Harriston singing to your friends!

Chewing on his cigar, Sam Katsen watched her as she spoke to the orchestra leader. He saw that she was nervous and that the others were both pitying her and laughing at her. Suddenly he hoped that she would be good. A new photograph in the lobby downstairs, a new face...Put her in a good looking dress, paint her eyes, and turn the spotlight on her...

Her first notes of a popular song were shaky. She closed her eyes. Why did she close her eyes, he wondered, half smiling. But the last half of the song was better. Still not looking at him, she sang another.

2 FROM COUNTY GIVEN PAROLES

Two Richland county inmates were among the 123 granted paroles from two state penal institutions by the Ohio board of parole, dispatches from Columbus said today. The board granted five conditional releases and continued 97 other cases.

The Mansfield reformatory inmate to be released is Calvin Reid, 19, who will be sent to Kentucky on or after May 1. He is under sentence from one to 20 years for manslaughter.

At Marysville reformatory for women, NeNie Lehman, under sentence for cutting with intent to wound, will be released June 1 to go to Georgia.

Japanese Spokesman Explains.

WITH conditions now existing in China, brought on by the Japanese invasion, that part of the orient must be recognized as a dangerous place.

Just how far the United States, or any other power, is justified in going in protecting its nationals, who have been warned of their peril, becomes a debatable question.

Unintentional sinking of the United States gunboat Panay, by Japanese warplane bombs, may serve to clarify the intention of this government in the matter of attempting to insure the safety of American ships and citizens in war zones.

Japan has been profuse in its apologies after each of the several incidents that have involved other nations, and a very definite effort is being made by the Japanese to establish "friendliness and understanding" on the part of the United States.

No clearer explanation of the philosophy of the Japanese, in their effort to take more territory from China, has come to hand, than appears in a recent issue of the Osaka (Japan) Daily Mainichi that has just reached this desk.

Tatsuo Kawai, spokesman of the Tokyo foreign office, is quoted:

"The world has been created for mankind, therefore all honest and industrious people have the right to live anywhere, in the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness. . . .

"The population of Japan has doubled in the past fifty years and is crammed into a limited area.

"If Japan wants to send out her people, all the outlets are blocked by other countries everywhere.

"The American Japanese exclusion law of 1924 is one that is against the natural law of mankind, which is greatly deplored by the Japanese people.

"We hear of late a heated argument on the question of the unequal distribution of resources as between the 'haves' and the 'have-nots.'

"If the 'haves' refuse to concede to the rightful demand of the 'have-nots' peace will be very difficult to maintain. . . .

"The idea of right, as conceived by the Western people is incompatible with that of the Oriental.

"Japan's only demand is that her people be entitled to enjoy the freedom of movement and the happiness which is rightfully theirs.

"Japan's intention to carry on her peaceful development on the continent is not for the sake of the happiness of Japan alone, but also for that of the Chinese.

"What Japan wants is peaceful co-operation between Japan and China. That co-operation China refused by force of arms, resulting in the present affair."

This statement of Japan's attitude is illuminating. It explains the Japanese self-justification for the seizure of Manchuria and the present attempt to place additional rich territory in northern China under Japanese rule.

It takes the position that Japan, overcrowded in its own land, is privileged at any time to force its surplus population on other countries or to use force in annexing additional territory.

It regards the United States exclusion law as "against the natural law of mankind" rather than accepting a more general view that each nation not only has territorial rights but also has the right to set up restrictions as to the character and kind of its population.

Truly, as is said by the spokesman of the Tokyo foreign office, "The idea of right, as conceived by the Western people, is incompatible with that of the Oriental."

There is danger that the world-encompassing designs of the island empire may become over ambitious.

Money for Pleasure.

A CURIOUS PHASE of the present business recession is that it has not yet affected the amusement field. In a large industrial city where new lay-offs and shut-downs might be expected to discourage spending for pleasure, the theaters, ice rinks, symphony concerts and boxing matches are all enjoying unusually generous patronage.

The automobile show broke all records for attendance. In a number of recent instances—one a play, another a piano recital by an artist—standing room was sold and many were turned away. Conventions which have brought visitors from outside have exceeded their own attendance expectations. There are as yet no cancellations of reservations for a large convention to be held in January.

All this leads observers to conclude that to most people the recession is only a "recess." They have confidence that the worst is not about to happen and that business will begin going ahead again soon.

Guard Against Holiday Fires.

BELIEVING that a warning about the hazards of fires at this season may save life and property, the National Board of Fire Underwriters has published a new eight-page leaflet entitled, "Keep Your Fires Friendly at Christmas Time."

The leaflet's cover displays a blazing Christmas tree. Inside a sketch pictures Santa Claus with beard and clothing afire. Additional sketches illustrate the hazards of nitrocellulose film in home movie projectors, inflammable decorations, and flimsy costumes.

A fatal fire resulting from the careless act of a smoker near a Christmas tree is described, and each special holiday hazard is considered in turn. Included are fire dangers in homes, stores and public halls.

Persons born on this date are advised against making unwise loans—which seems to apply equally well to all the other dates.

Nature seems to adapt development to conditions—so mind reading may be deferred until there is more material.

According to Variety, "Broadway songsmiths go dead in Hollywood"—with always an "x" to mark the spot.

Word comes that television is making progress—but you needn't believe it till you see it.

In his matrimonial affairs it appears that Mr. Culbertson carefully avoided a heart bid.

THE SHOPPING SEASON!

Considering Political Party Names For 1940

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The G. O. P. is so hard up for leadership that any Republican of noticeable proportions, who says something the least bit sensible, immediately proves to have suggested himself as a 1940 presidential possibility.

Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont is being talked of now

So is Gov. Francis P. Murphy of New Hampshire, but Governor Aiken spoke first.

I still think that present indications point rather toward Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan as his party's next white House nominee. Still, the two New England governors are developing their respective little boomlets.

AS STEWART SEES IT

Only a very venturesome prophet would, at this time, predict the election of Vandenberg, Aiken, Murphy or anyone else on the G. O. P.'s 1940 ticket, but someone will have to be nominated. That is the only prospect that I am speculating on.

Perhaps I should qualify. Maybe the Republican party will have frazzled out completely by 1940. However, if so, there will be a nomination, anyway, in opposition to the Democratic (New Deal) candidate. He will be, at least, something corresponding to what a Republican (comparatively a conservative) used to be.

Republicanism may change its label, its organization is so badly shot to pieces. So-called Democracy will stick to ITS label; ITS organization is all right, and will last for quite a while.

PARTIES CHANGE

In effect, though not in name, the Democrats are a new party. Secretary of State Hull and a few others are, to be sure, the same old thing, but the party they profess to belong to is not.

The Republican party is not so fully transformed, but it is in process of bursting out of its cocoon.

That is why Republicanism is so rattled. It was a caterpillar, which does not yet fully realize that it is becoming a butterfly, and scarcely knows what to call itself. The Democrats (excepting Hull and a small "et cetera") are quite conscious that they no longer are caterpillars, but continue to assert that they are.

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"

The Democrats are "getting away" with their deception as to their name, thus they do not need to re-christian themselves.

Perhaps the Republicans will have to do so.

Senator Vandenberg has said, indeed, that he is willing to be described as a Fusionist. But a "Fusionist" isn't much of a party name. Something more definite is needed. The Michigan senator evidently sees it.

Governors Aiken and Murphy however, want to rejuvenate Republicanism—they care for the NAME.

AS TO SOUTH

Creation of a party in opposition to the New Deal (call it Democracy or what you will) is O. K

But can a moribund party be resuscitated?

Governor Aiken makes an appeal to the south. There might be a response from Dixie to a new party, which Vandenberg hints at—but hardly to Republicanism, as suggested by Governor Aiken. The word "Republicanism" would arouse antagonism below the Mason-Dixon line.

A NEW NAME?

Briefly, Republicanism needs a new name.

It has to adjust itself to the times.

The Democratic party broke into the north, and won.

The Republican party needs to break into the south, to win.

The north is more tolerant than the south. It gulps down the Democratic label, even if southern—if necessary. The Republican north is prepared to vote prosoutherly, if a firstclass statesman like Secretary Hull argues rationally for it.

But it takes a lot of education to cause all folk to follow an Aiken or a Murphy or a Hull under their old party labels in the belief their parties have been rejuvenated.

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Are You Staging a Sit-Down Strike?

ARE you getting all you want out of life? As much fun? As much adventure, popularity and power? No?

Then maybe you're staging a sit-down strike.

Last May the Rev. Scott R. Wagner, of Hagerstown, Pa., spoke to the graduating class of Franklin and Marshall college. One hundred and forty-seven young faces, eager, self-confident, determined to live joyful and abundant lives. What were their chances?

Most of them plainly thought that would depend on outward circumstances . . . on lucky breaks, influential pull. But the man looking into those eager young faces knew their chances would depend upon themselves . . . on their own attitude toward life

Would they be willing to move with life . . . take it as it came . . . adjust themselves to it? Or would they sit back and wait for life to adjust itself to them? Spend their days waiting for "something to turn up" . . . rejecting any opportunity that implied distasteful risk, change or struggle?

WOULD THEY JOIN THE INNUMERABLE THRONG OF SIT-DOWN STRIKERS . . . THE PEOPLE WHO "WON'T PLAY" UNLESS EVERYTHING SUITS THEM?

"Sit-down strikers"—we take it for granted that they must be workers. Not necessarily. Some of us are sit-down strikers from birth, in any circumstances.

"Too many people engage in mental sit-down strikes all their lives," said the Rev. Wagner. "No one can hope to make contribution to the world who does not show eagerness and zeal The way to enjoy life to the fullest is to get understanding, to overcome mental, moral and spiritual inertia and to have faith in the possibilities of life and its values

"THE IMPORTANT THING IS TO KEEP UP ON YOUR TOES AND TO STIMULATE YOUR MENTAL CURIOSITY."

Let's consider your own case again. You may not be tragically unhappy—yet you aren't quite satisfied with your life, are you? Secretly, you're rather sorry for yourself . . . feel you've never had as good a chance as the Other Fellow.

BUT WHOSE FAULT IS IT? STOP AND THINK . . . HOW HAVE YOU TREATED THE CHANCES THAT DID COME YOUR WAY?

Have you been as willing to take chances, run risks, make changes, as that man or woman whom you envy? Are you willing today to consider new ways and ideas?

Suppose you're a discouraged man. Would you, for the sake of a larger, livelier life, drop a comfortable, convenient program and embark on a new course which might break up your old habits, force you to think and use initiative, possibly subject you to loneliness, discouragement, criticism and conflict?

Or perhaps you are one of those embittered mothers who believes she isn't getting the proper affection, consideration and gratitude from her children . . . one of those mothers who boasts that she's "never had a thought outside her home."

What a ghastly confession! Why have you never had a thought outside your home? How long would you expect to hold any other job if you showed no more gumption than that? And why on earth should you expect lively, modern youngsters to respect such an intellectual sluggard?

Sit-down strikes . . . at least half of us are staging them! Squatting in narrow ruts of stubbornness or stupidity, cowardice, complacency and conceit! Too lazy to think . . . too cowardly to take chances . . . too self-satisfied to admit you're wrong . . . too stubborn to change—

Then you wonder why you never get a break!

How It Started

Why It Is "Hoodlum."

Hoodlum, Americanism for ruffian and a comparatively recent addition to the English language, is the monument a San Francisco gangster left behind him three-quarters of a century ago, for us to remember him by.

Shortly after the Civil war, the slums of Frisco were dominated by a hoodlum leader called Muldoon.

Muldoon was known variously to the police, sometimes as Noodlum and finally as Hoodlum, which last finally became generic for rowdy.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

May Follow England's Housing Plan.

HERE'S a hot tip by a keen observer on the Pacific coast—Webster K. Nolan, well-known newspaper man of San Francisco:

"Of possible interest. . . .

"The conviction seems to be spreading among business men out here that Roosevelt is definitely committed to the British plan for the subsidization of the building industries. That the pending plan for upping to 90 per cent the federal insurance on FHA loans on properties appraised at $6,000 and under, is the first step in a comprehensive scheme looking to ultimate adoption of the whole British plan.

"The British plan, as you know, calls for the moderate-income prospective homeowner to put up next to nothing on a $2,000 principal sum, repayable to the government in amounts as low as 10 pounds a year ($50 approximately) over a period of 40 years. The government, at the same time advances $2,000 additional to the builders—an apparent straight loss, but recoverable through the investment, and compounding of interest thereon, of the sums paid by the homeowners annually—compounding for 40 years. The government eventually recovers, in that way, its entire investment, both loan and subsidy, and at the same time, spurs industry and eases unemployment.

"Brokers are tipping to buy building material common stock. They think this is the pie that FDR will cut early in 1938. Deterring factor they think is devising some legislative plan to curb speculators —buyers up of vast tracts for piecemeat re-sale to prospective customers of the plan, etc."

ANOTHER TIP

And here's another hot tip. This tip concerns Japan. It's from the Rev. Thoburn T. Brumbaugh, director of the Wesley Foundation of the Methodist Episcopal church in Tokio. The tip is contained in a report to the Board of Foreign Missions. Here's that tip from Dr. Brumbaugh—a native of Agosta, O., and a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university:

"If the United States and other powers wishing to secure peace in the Orient, desire to restrain Japan, they must first of all go farther than they have yet done in the renunciation of imperialism and of its spoils now so largely held under white and Christian banners; and second, they must at the same time find some practical, peaceful solution of the frightful economic problems of such nations as Japan.

"To use force, even such force as a boycott, is to employ an un-Christian means to a desired end. To make a boycott effective in this country would require the creation of an anti-Japanese attitude on the part of American people which would be closely akin to the hate of Germany aroused so disastrously during the World war. It is clear to all that we did not accomplish our purpose of destroying militarism, promoting democracy, or making war to end war in that great struggle. It is likely that when the Japanese-Chinese situation comes into the perspective of history, if we shall have used coercion upon Japan, the same disillusionment will result.

"Let America boldly attempt to solve the fundamental problems of unjust economic conditions from which the Orient suffers, and the ground will then be cut from under those who seek to solve Japan's problem by military aggression. We shall never have peace in the world in the basis of a status quo with respect to the world's resources and material blessings."

Whisky Shipments.

Scotch whisky is flowing to the United States in such volume, we are told, that it has come to form one of the most important movements in the westbound transatlantic freight traffic. It is not hard to believe, contemplating the import eestimates of 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 cases this year. One shipment alone is reported to have numbered 100,000 cases.

The interesting fact is disclosed in the announcement of an agreement between the shipping lines and importers for an increase in the rate from $12.50 to $15 for each 35 cases, the equivalent of a measurement ton of 40 cubic feet. That means an added freight charge of only a trifle more than 7 cents a case, which the importetrs say they will absorb out of their own profits. But a ship load of 60,000 to 70,000 cases, which has become common, means from $4,200 to $5,000 more per trip for the ship operator. That is no small factor to him in meeting the increased costs that confront him.

A sidelight is furnished by the September foreign trade statement. It shows that while general imports increased 35 per cent over the same month last year, whisky imports went up 45 per cent.—Newark Advocate.

Thyroid Gland Makes Various Functions Work Smoothly

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Recently I pointed out that in the operation of the manifold functions of the different systems of the body, there has to be some governing force, something to make the wheels go round. The digestive system converts food into a form suitable for use as energy and tissue; the heart pumps this around in the blood; the different cells take it up; the kidneys and skin throw off the waste products. But all of these different functions are beautifully correlated so that they do not get in each other's way. They are not beforehand or behind time, and everything works out smoothly.

To a very large extent the business of making all these things work out so well is done by the thyroid gland. We previously pointed out its effect upon weight. When its secretion is excessive, the weight loss of the body is rapid, and increased intake of food, even to an excessive extent, does not result in replacement of the weight loss.

Another thing that the thyroid undoubtedly helps to maintain is bodily temperature. All of our functions are carried on best at the exact level of 98.2 degrees F. Our functions do not operate well when we are chilled or when we have fever, and by many intricate processes the body maintains this exact temperature for its own efficiency. People with excessive thyroid secretion are always warm, require less bed clothing and fewer clothes than others, and those with diminished thyroid secretion are always cold. So the thyroid must have something to do with this very important general function of the body.

Its control over the muscles is notable. A large part of our body is muscle, and the muscles must maintain a certain tone in order to function vigorously. In some cases of excessive thyroid secretion with goiter, a marked atrophy occurs in all the muscles of the body.

The control of calcium nutrition and iron nutrition apparently is influenced partially by the secretion of the thyroid, and since the presence of the proper concentration of calcium in the blood influences muscular action, this may have something to do with the effect on muscles noted in the paragraph above.

The thyroid secretion also has a definite influence on growth, and I have seen a number of interesting cases in which every other growth hormone was eliminated, the patient staying on thyroid extract alone, with marked increase in height in children who have been stationary for some time

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

If You Could Live Your Life Again.

YOU STOP on the road and you look back over all tht mistakes you've made, all the wrong turnings, all the foolish decisions, and you say to yourself:

"If I could only live my life over again!"

If you could, you'd go to school longer, you'd study harder, you'd study law instead of medicine or medicine instead of law.

You'd marry sooner—or later.

You wouldn't play so much—or you'd play a lot more. You'd have more real friends—and fewer careless playfellows.

You'd do a lot of things you haven't done—and some of the things you did you wouldn't do at all.

If only you could live your life over again! All the years or just this last year or perhaps only this past week.

You sit under a tree and you "wonder about things" And the more you wonder, the less your certainty. Sometimes you think your entire life turned on one small decision you made many years ago.

You almost ran away to sea, but you didn't go.

You almost went to China for an export house, but you changed your mind at the last moment.

You almost did a lot of things, but you just didn't do them.

You did other things entirely and now you are what you are today.

And sitting there, thinking, you wonder about what MIGHT have happened if things had been just a little different.

If you hadn't gone to that picnic you wouldn't have met the girl you married. You'd have married someone else, probably, but you wouldn't have that dear wife or those children who make you so proud. You'd have had other children, not these ones.

The whole pattern of life would be changed for you—but would you be happier than you are?

When you say to yourself: "If only I could live my life over again!" you are thinking of the mistakes you made. It rarely occurs to you that often during your life you did the Right Thing.

So pick up your feet and shoulder your pack and start out again, with no backward looks over the mistaken years. You've not done so badly. And think of all the good years ahead and of the many decisions still to be made.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

GIVE-AWAY stationery costs New York hotels a sizable sum weekly. Especially is this true of the de luxe inns, such as the Waldorf, Ritz, St. Regis and Pierre's, which furnish costly paper expensively embossed. It is polite pilfering hard to scotch.

O. O. McIntyre

Some of the newer hotels have entirely abolished the writing room, but that does not prevent cadgers from asking for a few sheets from the desk clerks. On the plea they want to drop a note to some friends registered there but out at the moment.

In a like manner there is no way a hotel can refrain from accepting mail from non-patrons. The phonies plead they had expected to put up there, but due to unforseen circumstances, plans were changed. Thus do hotels against their will contribute to the build-up of rascals.

Such camouflage is the billiards for the hand-kissing type of pseudo-noblemen who are becoming an increasing social affliction. These are the perfumed pick-thanks who live in the rooming houses but put up the showy fronts of living high, wide and handsome.

Lillian Gish seems also to have joined in the shrink from the public—in the manner of Garbo, Maud Adams, et al. While never conspicuous, she was often seen at the more important first nights and no wand then in the more select restaurants or at an equally select tea. But for the past year she has been seen only in her professional roles on the stage. My seats for openings are usually opposite George Jean Nathan's and now and then he squired Miss Gish. She sat immobile throughout, a veritable statue in chalk. If they ever exchanged a word of conversation it was in the Edgar Bergen non-lip-moving motif.

But the human enigma of the theater was the late lamented Percy Hammond. Generally in the second or third row on the middle aisle, he seemed to drowse through entire proceedings, his eyes half closed. There is no record of a chuckle escaping him or of a sly swipe at a misty eye, and never was he seen to take a note. Yet nothing escaped him, and although he left some 20 minutes before the final curtain, his critiques were invariably complete.

Speaking of taking notes, Edwin C. Hill in his reportorial days, when most of his assignments were interviews with important folk, rarely made a notation. He could talk to his subject for an hour or so and when he got back to the news room quote almost word for word on the typewriter. And in no instance was there ever a comeback. Frank Ward O'Malley was another who seldom made a jotting but was invariably accurate.

In many ways Herbert Bayard Swope, before he became an executive editor, was the oustanding reporter of his time. He, too, was a non-note taker and his most brilliant efforts often concerned stories passed up as impossible. He had that quality known as aggressiveness—plus. And doors locked to others somehow opened for him. His excess of vigour has not been lost in his retirement to a less active life. He does not come into a room; he fairly swoops, recalling the mot of a wag that Swope conjugated was sweep, swipe, swope. To see him come breezing down a theater asile at a first night is something of a study in zip. It may be why he is so appropriately chairman of the state racing commission.

The Boston got off the reservation again this morning when left alone a short while and when we returned was drooping contritely in a corner, a pastel of dejection. He was given his severest punishment—several moments in a dark closet. And the household determined to ignore him at least until dinner time. He looked forlorn awhile and then put on his routine for sympathy, sitting up, whimpering and nuzzling his head between his paws while staring one out of countenance. But to no avail. That is, until around 4 p. m., when he came cawling belly-wise and rolled over at the desk, feet up. Being a softie, he chiseled me out of a nice hunk of ear scratching, and right now he's sound asleep on my lap—so soundly that I have to stop work so he will not be disturbed.

TEXAS ADDS 30 NEW OIL POOLS IN HALF YEAR

Vast Industry In State Has Daily Yield of More Than $1,500,000.

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(U.P.)—Discovery of 30 new oil pools in Texas during the first six months of 1937 again has set landowners to dreaming of the day that "black gold" may gush from beneath their farms.

A United Press survey revealed the magnitude of the chief industry of Texas, which has a daily income of approximately $1,500,000 despite rigid proration enforced by the Texas railroad commission. The giant East Texas field, for instance, is allowed to produce each day only 3.2 per cent of its estimated hourly potential.

Since Jan. 1, thirty new pools have been tapped to make the total number of known oil reservoirs 525. Of the 254 counties in the state, 141 now have producing oil wells and drilling operations are under way in 50 others.

Activity has increased in the once-rich Central West Texas area, where millions were made during and after the World war. Iron Mountain Oil company has a new shallow producer in Jones county, north of Abilene, that will produce a maximum of 5,000 to 50 000 barrels daily when completed.

Drought Area Rich.

The Joe Robinson No. 1 well in Fisher county, north of Sweetwater, came in with an estimated production of 5,000 barrels daily to skyrocket the prices of leases in an area that one year ago was burdened with the problems of low farm prices and drought. Farther west, development of the Permian basin along the Texas-New Mexico line is causing a boom that would be a credit to the old days of uncontrolled production and $3.50 a barrel oil.

Odessa, hub of the new West Texas development, has doubled its population. Abandoned street cars, bought in Forth Worth, are being used for homes in Odessa.

Other new developments in 1937 have brought booms to Jefferson and Mount Pleasant in East Texas and interest is high over a new producer in Guadalupe county, south of Austin. Important new discoveries have been made in Southwest Texas.

Texas now produces approximately 1,400,000 barrels of crude daily. The amount is prorated among wells and fields by the three-member state railroad commission, whose duties as a conservation body have greatly overshadowed its original purpose to deal with railroads.

Members of the commission are C. V. Terrell, chairman; Col. Ernest O. Thompson, and Lon A. Smith. Thompson, former chairman, is recognized by many as one of the world's foremost authorities on petroleum.

World Comparison Made.

Last month at Paris, France, Thompson told delegates to the second annual world petroleum congress that Texas now produced one-fourth of all the crude oil in the world and nearly one-half of that produced in the United States.

Texas has an estimated 70,000 wells now producing, of which approximately one-third are flowing. The other two-thirds produce through pumping. If no new wells are brought in in Texas, engineers estimate that some of the wells could continue flowing for 41 years.

Known reserves of oil in Texas are 7,000,000,000 barrels, Thompson told the congress—and 3,000,000,000 barrels more are estimated to be hidden in structures not fully defined by drilling. For comparison, Thompson pointed out that the total known reserves in the United States are only 13,000,000,000 barrels—and the total crude oil production in the world since 1857 is 29,142,809,964 barrels, of which Texas has produced about one-sixth.

Thompson discussed Texas conservation at the Paris congress, and declared that recovery of oil in some fields has been as high as 97 per cent—in contrast to previous methods which often resulted in recoveries of from 15 to 25 per cent.

ADOPTS ROAD PLAN

HONOLULU—(U.P.)—As a result of the rapid increase of automobiles on the Hawaiian islands, the federal and territorial governments have adopted a 20-year plan for hard-surfaced highways throughout the islands. More than 54,000 cars are now registered in the islands.

WOMAN OPERATES MINE

SYDNEY—(U.P.)—After operating a gold mine single-handed for a year in the jungle in New Guinea, Mrs. B. Harper has come to Sydney for a holiday. The claim is on the Atob river, five days' march from the nearest settlement.

URGE BOYCOTT

Noted World Figures Join In Plan to Buck Japan.

NEW YORK—(AP)—John Dewey, philosopher and Columbia university professor, and three other noted world figures, Romain Rolland, the novelist, Prof. Albert Einstein, the physicist, and Bertrand Russell, British sociologist, have proposed a boycott of Japanese goods.

"In view of the wanton destruction of oriental civilization and for the sake of humanity, peace and democracy," said a statement issued by the four, "we propose that the peoples of all countries organize voluntary boycott against Japanese goods, refuse to sell and load war materials to Japan, and cease cooperation with Japan in ways that held her aggressive policy."

Great Britain has twice as many merchant vessels as the United States.

FRENCH DRAMA FINDS REVIVAL IN HINTERLAND

Open-Air Theater Movement Gaining Wide Following In Provinces.

PARIS—(U.P.)—France, successor to the works of Roman civilization which flourished in ancient Gaul, today boasts the largest number of open-air theaters of any country in the world. Most of these theaters, of which there are now more than 60 throughout France, are remnants of ancient Roman amphitheaters reconstructed and preserved.

The summer months are important ones for the theaters, although several in southern France remain open throughout the year. Revived in the last decades of the 19th century, the open-air theaters in France started their repertoires with pastoral or medieval plays supplemented with Greek and Roman classics. "Prothemus," "Semiramis" and "Oedius Rex" were the first plays performed in the revived amphitheaters where large choruses and purely local talent gave a note of freshness to the plays.

New School Rises.

Open-air theaters then began introducing new plays to France, the tiny village of Cauterets which was once a Roman resort, able to boast that its ancient ruins and green grass served as the first setting in France of Wagner's "Siegfried." Today a whole new school of playwriters and actors has adopted the open-air theater for a real expression of their art. Some of the best known names among them are Rober Gaillard, Paul Oettly, Jean Herve, Emilie Lerou and Jeanne Delvair.

Masterpieces which formerly faced an audience only in Paris have spread to the provinces, largely through the decentralizing medium of the open-air theater. The classics of Moliere, Corneille and Racine as well as a long line of their successors in the French theater owe much of their recent popularity to their wide diffusion through this movement, and were taken from their sacrosanct and limited centers at the Opera and the Opera-Comique in Paris.

One of the best known theaters is that of the parvis of Notre Dame cathedral in the heart of Paris. Here each year the medieval passion play, "Vray Mistere de la Passion," finds a beautiful setting before the Gothic walls of Notre Dame.

CITY RECEIVES RECOGNITION IN U. S. ADVERTSING PUBLICATION

Mansfield comes to the fore for countrywide recognition in this week's issue of "Advertising Age," a national advertising publication, which carries a two-page advertisement featuring the city and 13 of its representative leaders in business, industry and community affairs.

The advertisement, sponsored by Liberty Magazine, will appear in an early issue of that publication.

Compiled as promotion for Liberty, it describes Mansfield as "a solid city of 40,000 which is typical of the country's better industrial communities."

The city is credited with being "frankly industrial . . . where diversified industry has created the qualities which make a city worthwhile as a place to live and as a market.

"Beyond the factories are pleasant streets, the tidy homes of workers proud of their skill, the more imposing residences, the parks, schools, shopping sections—all the things that make Mansfield an example of worthwhile America," the advertisement says.

Three photographs, representing typical scenes in the city, are shown in the magazine. One pictures Park avenue west from Central park, another the courthouse, and the third, two of the city's better homes in the southwest residential section.

Mansfielders pictured in the advestisement are:

Paul M. Eliot, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company; J. M. Hill, president of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company; C. L. VanDerau, manager of the manufacturing at the Westinghouse plant; Charles H. Keating, president of the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company; R. B. Gardner and Weston Cutter, automobile dealers; John W. Graham, general manager of The News-Journal; Mrs. F. David Boals, president of the Mansfield P. T. A. council; J. L. Metcalf, proprietor of Met's Auto Supply store; Guy H. Lautsbaugh, druggist; C. A. Arbaugh, grocer; Mrs. E. K. Bacon, director of the Community players, and Warren W. Loomis, auto service station proprietor.

276 PRESENT AT GRID BANQUET HELD AT GALION

'Fritz' Mackey, O. S. U. Coach, Speaks at Dinner Honoring N. C. O. Victors.

GALION—One of the largest football banquets ever to be held in Galion took place Tuesday evening at the Galion Elks' club, sponsored by "Boosters" of the Galion High school football team. The affair was attended by 276 squad members, coaches, visiting coaches, school officials, business men and citizens.

Frederick "Fritz" Mackey, Ohio State freshman football coach, and a former Galion athlete, was the principal speaker. He brought a moving picture of the Ohio State-Southern California game, one of the closest contests played by the Buckeyes last season.

Ends Dinner Series.

The banquet Tuesday night was a final wind up of the series of dinners given the football team by civic and fraternal groups during the season, and it was the climax of the 1937 N. C. O. championship won by the Galion High school Orangemen.

Rev. P. E. Auer, pastor of Peace Lutheran church, was the toastmaster for the program which followed a turkey dinner.

The first speakers were Herman Plack, considered the team's "biggest" booster, and Assistant Coach Johnny Burnison. Others who were introduced included Coach Carl Cramer of Marion; Floyd Wicks and Dick Welsh, members of Ashland high football team; Professor Gerhart and Football Captain Larue of Bucyrus high school; and a representative from Mt. Vernon high school.

O. E. Hill, superintendent of the Galion schools; W. L. Swick, Galion High school principal; and Coach Robert Corry, also spoke.

Corry awarded the following football players certificates: Casto Ramsey, Fred Staub, Eugene Schreck, Bob Gardner, Billie Durtschi, George Corrado, Jimmy Ernst, Warren Yeager, Dick Kump, Eugene Drexel, Clem Chandler, Bob Shupp, John Patterson, Bob and Allen Hocker, Murrel Kleinknecht, Mike Pangallo, Lawrence Maidens and Frank Parrish. The four managers also receiving certificates were Cronenwett, Johnson, Harden and Cochrane.

Ramsey represented the football squad when he presented gifts to Coaches Corry and Burnison, and large pictures of the team to Supt. Hill and Herman Plack. A large picture of Frederick Mackey was presented by Rev. Auer to Supt. Hill to be placed in the corridor of the Senior High building.

Mackey's address, and the showing of the football pictures closed the program

Crestline Grid Team Honored At Community Dinner

CRESTLINE—About 225 were present at the annual high school football banquet held Monday evening at the school cafeteria with Coach Merle Hutson and his team, guests of honor.

E. T. Talbott, former president of the Community Improvement association, who were again sponsors for the affair, acted as toastmaster and various members responded to his call with short talks.

The main address of the evening was given by James W. Aiken, athletic director and football coach of Akron university.

Others who gave short talks were: Supt R. B Smith., Principal A. A Remy, Ira G. Foster, president of the board of education; C. W. Frank, president of sponsoring association; Mayor George Kuzell and Mayor Elect L. F. Waldbauer. A. T. Enoch, assistant principal and C. Donaldson, assistant coach.

GETS $100 FINE

CRESTLINE — Dwight Cauffman, of St. James street, who was arrested here Sunday night on a charge of driving an auto while under the influence of liquor, had a hearing before Mayor George Kuzell Monday afternoon and was fined $100 and costs and had his license revoked. Cauffman paid the fine and was released.

Cauffman, who was driving north on Seltzer street, collided with another car driven by Miss Helen Such of Mansfield, police said.

AID CHILDREN

Bucyrus 'Give-A-Christmas' Group Raises $500.

BUCYRUS—Workers who have conducted the annual "Give-a-Christmas" program for needy children of the city, are busy this week outfitting children with new and used clothing and purchasing other articles of apparel through funds furnished by popular subscription and a tag sale.

The goal, originally set at $400, was passed Tuesday when contributions reached $500.

In addition to clothing, more than one thousand toys have been contributed through the schools and private contributions and they are being made ready for distribution at the Bucyrus high school shop.

RITES ARE SET

Former Galion Resident To Be Buried at Marion.

GALION—Funeral services will be held in Marion Thursday at 2:30 p. m. for Mrs. Helen Louise Laughbaum Blake, wife of Francis E. Blake of 266 South Vine street, Galion. Rev. Harry R. Merle, pastor of First Lutheran church of Galion, will officiate, and interment will be made in the Marion cemetery.

Mrs. Blake died Monday after an extended illness.

She was born in Galion, April 13, 1911, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Laughbaum, and was graduated in 1929 from Galion High school. Her marriage to Francis E. Blake of Marion took place on Oct. 31, 1931.

Survivors besides her husband are parents and a sister, Mrs Charles Thayer of Lakewood.

PICKS OFFICERS

GALION—Besides complimenting Mrs. J. K. Harsh in honor of her 50th wedding anniversary, the Woman's Relief corps at the regular meeting Tuesday afternoon also held an election of officers. Mrs. Carl Coover was elected to her 10th term as president of the group. Others chosen were: senior vice president, Vergie Kester; junior vice, Gertrude Wells; chaplain, Mrs. Elmer Berry; treasurer, Mrs. Bert Flowers; conductress, Mrs. Roy Moser; guard, Mrs. Fred Fogle; delegates to the department convention, Mrs. William Fetter and Mrs. Fred Laubscher; alternates, Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Frank Newman.

Injured In Fall, Ashland Woman Sues For $25,000

ASHLAND — Charging that her landlord did not maintain proper lighting in the hallway of an apartment house, as provided by law, Martha M. Keller of this city asks damages of $25,000 from Samuel Reeb for permanent injuries said to have been sustained in a fall.

The petition avers that on Dec. 16, 1935, while on her way to her suite in the apartment owned by the defendant, the plaintiff stumbled over an object, and sustained a fracture of her right leg.

The plaintiff claims that had the hall been lighted as provided by law, the accident would not have occurred.

It is claimed that as a result of the accident, the plaintiff has suffered a permanent injury causing her right leg to heal two inches shorter, and that it has rendered her unfit for any gainful employment.

AMERICA BEST, WRITER SAYS

McDermott, After 17 Years of Travel, Sees No Other System Superior.

Dermott stated that there is little external evidence in the large cities of damage from air raids. His contention on this point—and he included the similar air attacks of Japan on China—is that airplane marksmanship is on the whole rather inaccurate and that the civilian has little to fear from that direction in the event of war.

The speaker said that the damage was greatest on the Loyalist side because there has been so much fighting in their own ranks.

"The Loyalists are split into several factions including the anarchists, the Communists, and the Trotskyists, all of them having the common hatred of Franco," McDermott said. "No matter whether the Loyalists or the Insurgents win, Spain will be subject to strife for years to come, because there is so much divergence of feeling within both major groups.

"The tragedy of the whole Spanish situation is that democracy is dead," he added.

Russia, McDermott said, is conducting the most important social experiment in our time, asserting that the complete industrialization of a nation which was once primarily agricultural is the greatest step.

Says Soviet Progress Halted.

"The greatest thing the Soviet regime has done is to make a more tolerable living for human beings," he asserted. "Today, at least, there is enough food to eat and enough clothing to keep the people from freezing to death. However, at present these seems to be a definite arrest in progress. This is a result of industrial unrest in all the manufacturing and primary industries.

"Principally Russia's difficulty now lies in the fact that the government, which was supposedly established for the people, is the butt of the public wrath. Naturally the government cannot admit this, so many of the officials of the various industries either have been or are afraid of being seized as political prisoners."

Comparing costs of living, McDermott told his audience that the average American family on relief is considerably better off today than the average Russian family.

Stamping the apparent prosperity of Germany as purely artificial, the columnist turned to the last country of his talk.

"The one thing Hitler has done for the country is to reduce the unemployment from 6,000,000 to a half million. He has done this though by putting 48 per cent into industries which are making or ready to make war machinery, and 48 per cent into building which is government subsidized."

Concluding the discussion of the fascist state as a whole, McDermott contended that the system involves the reduction of living standards and the increased cost of living.

"The principal behind it all—in all three governments discussed—is the individual exists for the state alone," he said.

The program was opened with musical selections by Mrs. Elsie Ireland, George Ireland, and Ernest Schaefer at the piano, violin, and viol. This was followed by popular tunes presented by the trio composed of the Misses Jane Weuthrick, Dorothy Clingan, and Ruth Cox. Miss Genevieve Howe accompanied the trio.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. A. E. Allen, Mrs. R. G. Averill, Mrs. E. R. Hartman, Mrs. S. D. Mahan, Mrs. M. W. Manz, and Mrs. W. L. Miller.

GIRDLER HITS 'UNFAIRNESS'

be forced to pay dues to a union, permit employes to take secret votes on strike proposals, and make a union's responsibility in any contract or agreement equal to the employer's.

"Instead of encouraging cooperation and understanding between employe and employers," Girdler said, "we have had the amazing spectacle of the national administration actually encouraging certain labor leaders in their efforts to foment hatred and breed discord among workers.

"Instead of maintaining some measure of consistency in national policy enabling business to know where it stands, we have had all manner of inconsistency."

Assailing the CIO, Girdler said its objective of "one big union" is no different "in effect from the objectives of the long discredited Knights of Labor and IWW's and similar movements which have appeared at various times in our history."

He added:

"The men who lead these movements, having no connection with industry, seek to attach themselves as leeches to the workers and to build up political and economic power for themselves."

He claimed "collapse" of the steel strike "brought an end to the attempt to deny by force a basic right which should be preserved for all American citizens—the right to be a free worker."

QUIZ TRIO IN HOLD-UP DEATH

Police Check Story of Girl Who Confesses Robbery Series.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va.—(AP)—Officers checked today details of a robbery tour outlined for them by 20-year-old Mrs. Eva Houser Cook and planned to question her husband and another companion about the hold-up slaying of Sam Napier.

Assistant Prosecutor O. G. Vancamp, who said the girl told of a series of robberies and attempted robberies in Ohio and West Virginia by the "joy-riding" trio, quoted her as saying that Cook and his friend had talked about a "job" near Naugatuck.

Napier was slain near that Wayne county town in a holdup a few months ago.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The Liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c safety at 2 a. m. today when the truck in which they were riding ran wild down the Ashland hill east of the city and stopped in a field several hundred feet off route 42. The occupants were Homer Ihle and James Mitchell.

ICE PARALYZES OHIO TRAFFIC

Sleet Grounds Planes, Ties Up Highways; Roads 'Worst Ever,' Patrol Head Says.

The truck, loaded with 10 tons of meat and oleomargarine, was not damaged extensively, Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman said.

Air travel schedules eastward from Kansas City were cancelled indefinitely following the prediction of more sleet over much of the midwest tonight. At Columbus, airlines officials said there had been no movement of planes since early last night, because of the low ceilings and icy conditions.

Buses throughout Ohio were operating today, but "slightly" behind schedule, officials reported.

The ice coating, reported heaviest in the Lake Erie region of the state, was the result of the freezing of light rain which fell after midnight. The rain was mixed with sleet and snow in the Richland county area.

Conditions were not expected to improve until the mercury rises above the freezing point, weather forecasters said. Light rain continued to fall today—over much of the affected area which extended from Wisconsin to Kentucky and from Iowa to Pennsylvania.

Temperature readings in Mansfield ranged from a high of 39 above yesterday to 21 above last night. At noon today the mercury stood at 26. Average reading for the past 24 hours was 25 degrees, seven degrees below the normal 32.

YOUTH INDICTED IN SEX SLAYING

Charge Ends Probe of Killing of Girl at Grafton.

ELYRIA—(U.P.)—A Lorain county grand jury today had returned a first degree murder indictment against Alexander Maneff, 23, of West Homestead, Pa., in the ravish-slaying of Louise Hornbeck, 19-year-old dentist's assistant, at nearby Grafton, on Oct. 18.

Return of the true bill against the Pennsylvania youth climaxed a two-week investigation by the grand jury and a six-week period in which he had been held without charge.

Maneff, a hitch-hiker, was arrested originally at Navarre, O., police said he confessed the attack on the girl but said he did not kill her.

Royal Romance?

A new portrait of Lady Anne Cavendish-Bentinck, daughter of the Marquess of Titchfield, whose name has been linked in whispers romantically with that of Prince Charles, brother of King Leopold of the Belgians. Prince Charles, as well as King Leopold, recently was a guest at Welbeck Abbey, home of the Duke of Portland, grandfather of Lady Anne.

Bob Taylor Mobbed Again

Robert Taylor, handsome matinee idol of the screen, returns to New York following a four-month sojourn in Europe and once more is mobbed by women fans. Bob is shown with a few above. Taylor parried questions of romance with Barbara Stanwyck or whether he had a hairy chest. But he did indicate that he hoped Miss Stanwyck still had him in mind.

satin and silver, (for that "Veni, Veni" number); there is a whole set of "solid diamond" costumes with touches of sapphire blue; and Russian military outfit in stiff white taffeta, with full swirling skirts, and high Cossack hats in blue and tan. And believe us, our chorus girls really DANCE.

Then we are one up on you—definitely—with our "March of Time" which you don't have. It's a fast series of "black outs", depicting actual (?) events in Mansfield, a good natured ribbing of public figures, which we think they will enjoy as much as the audience (at least the president of the United States always enjoys being "ribbed" at the National Press club's annual gridiron), and which comes to them over the Voice of Time.

And because it's Christmas time, and everybody feels sorta gay and festive, we are going to let 'em sing—Christmas carols or "Pack Up Your Troubles"—we don't care which.

If N. T. G., who is playing Ohio cities right now, cares to run down to Mansfield for the midnight show Saturday, we'll be glad to have him look over a show that is all new and clean—which would be a treat for him, we believe.

(Signed) Sincerely,
The Three Muster-Cheers.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The Liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

CABARETS VEX NEW ORLEANS FOR 218 YEARS

Regulation of Night Clubs and Taxation Was First Problem of France.

NEW ORLEANS — (U.P.) — This city didn't invent the night club, but New Orleans has had cabarets since the earliest days of its history.

They sprang up around 1718 and they've flourished all those 218 years, a perpetual official headache. Authorities worried plenty back in the Colonial days. They taxed and they regulated and they told police it was their job . . . just as they do today.

In those early days, New Orleans cabarets, as they say in Hollywood, "had everything." The ones with floor shows were hardly places for family gatherings. The cabaret had come direct to New Orleans from Paris. The very name came from the old French word "cavere," meaning an empty space.

Led to Smuggling.

The city fathers taxed the cabarets for alcoholic liquors sold. Naturally the profession of liquor smuggling developed. Bienville, the founder of New Orleans, was the first official to whom the cabaret became a headache. He wrestled with liquor smuggling for years. When he quit his job and went back to France he bequeathed his battle to his successors. They're wrestling with it yet.

Old documents in the Cabildo, where archives of the city are kept, show that one Monsieur Dupont, cabaret keeper, was arrested in 1726, just eight years after the city was founded. He was charged with violation of the law against selling alcoholic liquor on Sunday during Divine service.

By 1746, when New Orleans was a 28-year-old city, with a population of 800 whites and 300 colored people, the cabaret problem had become so acute that authorities decided to limit them to six. They ordered that the licenses be put up for sale at auction.

Bidding was so spirited that the city council gained 4,605 livers by the auction. The French livre started as equal to the English pound about $5. The cabaret problem was believed solved.

But it wasn't. Seventeen years later Nicholas Lafreniere, procureur-general for the king, gave this description to some of rear-city cabarets:

"To accelerate their earnings, and to meet the expenses they incur, they adulterate the liquors they illegally sell, and expose the slaves to violent maladies. While furnishing them with drink, they incite them to pilfer and steal from the houses of their masters all they can find: the handkerchiefs, the towels, the empty bottles, etc., all have a price and disappear in the traffic of these clandestine taverns and cabarets imported from America. What hidden, pernicious disorders have resulted!"

REVIEW SOUGHT

Supreme Court Given Knox County Gas Suit.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The Ohio Supreme court has been asked to review a Knox county suit involving gas lease royalties on farm properties owned by the litigants.

John M. Gann, farm owner, in 1915 executed a lease agreement with his brother George W. Gann, on a 190-acre tract and providing for the gas royalty payments.

Some time after the still effective lease was executed, George died. His widow, Catherine Gann Stolte, his sole heir, received his rights in the lease. She received 119.21 acres and John Gann 70.02 acres.

The question to be decided by the court is whether gas royalties which come directly from her wells on the widow's land belong entirely to her or should be prorated between the two land owners.

Air-Conditioned Poultry Houses Pay In Dividends

BOTHELL, Wash.—(INS)—An air-conditioned chicken house is the development of S. A. Sween, Bothell poultryman, who reports his hens are paying dividends on his investment in eggs.

After considerable research, Sween said, he discovered chickens need five or six times as much air per pound of weight as mammals. He devised an apparatus to circulate air through his poultry houses, without placing his hens in a draft.

To add further happiness and induce more eggs, the temperatures never fall below 50 degrees.

HITS 'BLUNDER'

Judge Says Government Failed In Bank Fund Case.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—In sentencing Stanley M. Patterson, former cashier of the Bank of Pleasantville, to four months in jail, Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood commented that the government had "blundred" in handling the case.

Patterson was indicted in 1933 on three counts, charging false entry and misapplication of $1,488 and $725.

Assistant District Attorney Ray J. O'Donnell said that the Fairfield county banker was connected with a pool of depositors' funds for dealing in stocks but that at the time the pool was disclosed, it had netted a profit, so that no one lost money.

"The government blundered in this case," said Judge Underwood.

ASKS RETURN OF WHIPPING POST

Massachusetts Solons Offers Them as Drunken Driving Penalty.

BOSTON —(AP)— The whipping post, the ducking stool, or the public stocks, punishments of Massachusetts' colonial days, would be revived and inflicted on persons convicted of driving while drunk under the terms of a bill filed by State Representative Charles W. Olson.

Under the proposed measure two-to-10 lashes might be inflicted while penalties ranging up to four hours a day for three days would be imposed in the ducking stool and stocks.

The existing law provides for fines of $50 to $1,000 or jail terms of two weeks to two years, or both, in such convictions.

House Opens Fight on Amendments for Wage-Hour Bill

A.F. OF L. PLAN DOCKETED FOR DEBATE FIRST

Five Proposals Wait Action as Lawmakers Clear Path For Delayed Hearing.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house was ready to begin amending the wages and hours bill. The American Federation of Labor's proposal to fix labor standards by statute was expected to offer the first fight.

At the completion of six hours of general debate the house was forced to delay reading the measure for amendments until today because the government printing office had made errors in preparing a new "clean" print for House Labor Committee Chairman Mary T. Norton, (D-NJ). The corrected print will be ready at noon.

Ready With Bill.

Rep. John F. Dockweiler, (D-Calif.), said he would seek to offer the federation bill as an amendment to the committee version, as soon as the first paragraph has been read.

Besides Dockweiler's bill there are four others awaiting action. All face possible adiditional obstacles on points of order, but each is expected to be challenged as not germane to the committee substitute.

1. The senate version, seeking to establish minimum labor standards of wages and hours at not more than 40 cents an hour nor less than 40 hours a week, under the administration of a five-man board.

2. The house labor committee version, providing the same standards but putting administration in the hands of a $10,000-a-year official in the department of labor who would appoint committees of employers, employes and the public to recommend minimum wages and hours for "substandard" industries.

Sets Flat Minimum.

3. The American Federation of Labor bill calling for flat minimum standards of 40 cents an hour and a 40-hour week written into law. Violations would be prosecuted by the justice department in the federal courts.

4. The Connery bill to bar from interstate commerce goods produced by workers paid less than 40 cents an hour or who work more than 40 hours per week. This bill is distinguished from the "Black-Connery" bill. A description of either the senate or house committee balls. The Connery bill is sponsored by Rep. Lawrence Connery (D-Mass.), who succeeded to the seat of his brother, the late labor committee chairman William P. Connery, co-author of the other measure.

5. The Lamneck bill, by Rep. Arthur P. Lamneck (D-Ohio), to define "sub-standard labor conditions" as unfair trade practices and to permit the federal trade commisison to regulate them. No specific minima are suggested.

REAL 'PEPPER'

Jane Withers Lets Go Tricks In Can Matinee Film.

Jane Withers lets go with all of the tricks in her kit in "Pepper," one of her recent pictures, which Warner Brothers Ohio theater will present to the youngsters of Mansfield at 9:30 a. m. Saturday for the last can matinee of the year.

The little star outdoes herself and gets everyone hopelessly tangled up before she settles down to be a good little girl—until her next picture.

"Pepper" is one of the four features that the Ohio will offer Saturday morning when cans of food will be the price of admission. There is a cartoon comedy, a romantic comedy, "Love Nest On Wheels," and a news reel.

Ice Blockade On Ohio River Halts Packets, Towboats

CINCINNATI—(AP)—All Ohio river traffic from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh was suspended indefinitely today as continued cold weather choked the stream with ice.

Huge cakes of ice gorged at dam 38, New Richmond, 20 miles upstream, forming a barricade around the gates and wickets and preventing passage through the locks. Several boats were tied up near the dam waiting for warmer weather or a break-up of the ice.

Ice covered the river from shore to shore as far south as Portsmouth and U. S. engineers reported it three to five inches thick around Gallipolis.

While the river was fairly open around Louisville, engineers reported it "one-third to full of ice" as far down as the mouth of the Kentucky river at Carrollton, just half way from here to Louisville.

The Greene Line Packet Evergreene remained grounded near Manchester, about 60 miles upstream from here, waiting for a chance to continue its trip to Huntington, W. Va.

Assembly Works on 2-Year Relief Program

Up and Down THE STREET

Santa Claus put in an early appearance at the Senior high school this year, students found when they arrived at school yesterday. On entering the building, the first thing that met their eyes was a large Christmas tree decorated with various trimmings and colored lights. Other decorations in the lobby and in front of the main office include red and green crepe paper and holly wreaths.

Was August Schultz, the municipal court bailiff's face red the other day when he made out a receipt and handed it to a young lady who had paid a court debt, only to have her hand the receipt back and ask if it was a regular practice of the court to issue a check for the amount paid? Schultz found that he had written the receipt on a check form used by the court.

John B. Coleman, Mansfield oil man, Rotarian and general good fellow, batted a thousand as Santa Claus for the 24 Sunshine school pupils at the Rotary club's annual Christmas party yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Taking his cues from the boys' and girls' letters to Saint Nick, Coleman spent three days buying gifts for the two dozen guests. He was called out of town just before the party, but he had the word of the happy youngsters later that they had received just what they wanted and Santa Claus himself couldn't have done better.

Matthew Elias, "Pop" to the boys, is something like the woman who lived in a shoe, who had so many children she didn't know what to do. However, "Pop," custodian of athletic equipment at Mansfield high, does little complaining. Mothers think they have a lot of clothes to look after, they should have "Pop's" job for a while. He has to keep around 600 baskets of gym clothes in place, not to mention 600 to 700 towels which must be checked constantly.

If W. H. G. (Lumbermens) Kegg can lay claim to the title of having more shirt and tie ensembles than anyone else in Mansfield, perhaps Lydon (Attorney) Beam can make a similar claim when it comes to suits. An anonymous fashion observer says Beam has 20 suits, and never wears the same one two days in a row (who would if they had that many?).

GRANT OKAYED

$16,000 WPA Allocation For County Given Approval.

A WPA allocation totaling $16,049 for repairing, binding and cataloguing books in Richland county school libraries was virtually assured today with the approval of the grant by President Roosevelt, Congressman William A. Ashbrook said today in Washington.

The measure providing for the grant is in the office of the comptroller general at Washington for final approval, Ashbrook said.

The project will be sponsored by the county board of education and will be a continuance of a similar project started in the county two years ago. The library work was discontinued last spring due to the lack of funds.

'STOP-GAP' BILL PASSED, WAITS GOVERNOR'S PEN

Emergency Measure Provides $1,000,000 For Immediate Aid to Ohio Needy.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey today signed a stop-gap emergency relief bill appropriating $1,000,000 to counties on the basis of need.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The legislature turned its attention today to enactment of a "permanent" relief program and the supplemental budget after approving stop-gap measures providing $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 for immediate relief financing.

Only Governor Martin L. Davey's approval was needed to make the stop-gap funds available as fast as machinery can function for their distribution.

All counties must have their immediate relief requirements ready by next Thursday for the state control board to make allotments from a $1,000,000 advance from general revenue funds.

Counties will be able to provide additional funds from $2,500,000 to $5,000,000 sales and utility tax surpluses as soon as the state bureau of inspection announces their quotos so they can issue and sell short term notes against them.

Other balances from relief and flood funds will be available for various counties forthwith.

Works With Speed.

The house's "permanent" relief program, intended to finance both state and local participation for two years, may be completed in the lower chamber Thursday. Bills intended to carry out all provisions, with the possible exception of whether local subdivisions shall match all state grants, will be up [illegible] that day.

The bills provide:

1—Appropriating $6,500,000 by the state from sales tax revenues for 1938.

2—Authorizing counties to vote special tax levies for relief by a 55 per cent vote instead of the present 65 per cent requirement.

3—Re-enacting the one per cent utility excise tax and the one-half cent beverage tax for two years and allocating the amusement tax for the same period for relief.

4—Establishing a state relief director with limited powers in the distribution of funds and defining those entitled to poor aid.

The matter of matching still is a debatable question. The house finance committee has voted against striking that provision from the administration's bill, but the proposition is expected to meet with considerable opposition on the floor. The senate is anticipated to favor matching.

Senate leaders, it became known today, have issued a virtual ultimatum to the house to have its "permanent" program ready for senate consideration by next Tuesday or the senate will bring out its own program and ignore the house's.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

WPA—Can We Keep It Up?

IT IS, of course, true, as Marriner Eccles told a senate committee, that if the business slump continues, anything like the approximate budget balance promised by the president next year is impossible. However, Mr. Eccles, who was the first advocate of the New Deal theory, now so sick, of spending our way back to prosperity, did not touch upon the main cause for this undoubted fact—to wit, the relief situation. That has become the routine, recognized reason for the increasingly precarious state of our national finances. The difference, in good times or bad, between income and outgo is largely the cost of federal relief.

NO MATTER what other economies are made, so long as relief costs approximate two billion a year, financial equilibrium cannot be recovered, and year by year we will continue to sink deeper into the mire. Every posted man in Washington knows this to be true—and most of them know why. The business slump which, it is estimated, will have added 2,000,000 to the roll of the unemployed by February, certainly will greatly increase the weight and cost of the relief load. Mayors of every big city are insisting upon heavier appropriations, vehemently protesting any cut. Obviously, if there are more men out of work, more money will be needed to take care of them—that is if the present system of dispensing and distributing relief is adhered to.

* * *

THAT IS really the heart of the whole question, and there is very little use in Mr. Eccles or the president or anyone else promising a budget balance, so long as the present policy is continued. Even if the business slump is checked, barring a great revival and expansion of industry, no balance can be achieved. That was shown last year when business was booming and industry putting on men by the thousands without appreciably reducing the total cost of relief. All of which comes down to this—with the president and practically everyone [illegible] a budget balance as vital, the uncertainty that the relief load will be increased next year means that despite all other possible savings, we will be plunged still deeper in the deficit hole than before.

* * *

EVERYBODY agrees that that involves great danger. Another year of undiminished deficit and increasing debt will put federal finances so far out of control that the pace toward inflation will be greatly accelerated. Under the circumstances, it does seem that a facing of the facts by the administration, by congress and by the people is inevitable. And the outstanding fact is that the system of relief which the administration has adopted is the most costly and the least efficient of any. There is no denial of that. It is admitted that the straight dole would cost from one-half to two-thirds less. It is admitted that it would be easier to administer. It is admitted that it would cut down the enormous overhead expense of the WPA, reduce the pay roll and eliminate a great many jobholders.

IN DEFENSE of the WPA are the old arguments that it is better for the country to provide some sort of work for those whom the government must support and better for the general morale of those who have to be supported. For these reasons the administration has taken the stand that the straight dole is "unthinkable" for American citizens and that the WPA system is worth what it costs, because it preserves the self-respect of the recipients of federal largess. Wholly aside from the fact that the work is largely of such flimsy and phony character that the self-respect argument becomes ridiculous the hard, economic realities which now confront us would seem to force a change in policy.

* * *

THE SIMPLE truth is that if every contention in favor of the WPA were sound, if it provided useful work for every recipient, if it saved their self-respect and preserved the morale, which it does not—if all these things were true, the fact remains that we can't afford it. We can't afford it in the best of times; in bad times it becomes unthinkable. Saturated with politics, it is the greatest example of waste the world has ever seen. It would seem that when the time arrives, next season, to make the great relief appropriations, there would at least be some voices raised in favor of abolishing the whole WPA system and substituting some method by which the federal funds could be distributed to the distressed unemployed through local, state and community agencies. It would save half the money, hurt no one's morale and no one would starve. It would seem that the time had arrived when members of congress well might ask whether it is worth while to sink a whole nation in order, theoretically, to preserve the problematical self-respect of a small and unfortunate minority.

FOWLER TO QUIT SHERIFF'S POST

Meigs County Official, Freed In Slaying of G. O. P. Leader, to Accept Radio Job.

POMEROY — (AP) — Roscoe O. Fowler, first Democratic sheriff ever elected in Meigs county, announced today that he would leave this traditionally Republican stronghold — scene of the trial at which he was acquitted of a charge of the second degree murder of Lafe Williamson—to accept a position with a radio firm in Richmond, Ind.

D. Curtis Reed, one of the attorneys who defended Fowler at his trial for the blackjack slaying of the county Republican leader, issued a statement at Columbus last night that the sheriff would tender his resignation to county commissioners today.

"After careful consideration of all the circumstances involved in the events of the past weeks, I have decided to relinquish voluntarily my office as sheriff of Meigs county," Fowler said.

Fowler retired voluntarily from office during the investigation into Williamson's death, which the state charged was caused by a blackjack blow. Later, he was indicted but since the date for a hearing on the ouster petition conflicted with the date of his murder trial, the former was postponed indefinitely.

Williamson died last July 17, nearly three weeks after he was found unconscious in the street, following a fraternal party.

NANKIN TO SEE YULE CANTATA

Junior Civic Chorus to Present Program Tomorrow Night.

The 2-voice Junior Civic chorus of Mansfield will present the Christmas cantata, "Bethlehem," at 8 p. m. Thursday at the Federated church at Nankin.

The cantata will be presented in three parts and will feature solos by eight young Mansfield singers.

The chorus is under the direction of J. Frederick Wolf, and will be accompanied by Miss Lillian Damlos, pianist. The group also will present the cantata Sunday afternoon in the First Congregational church here.

VISIT OF SANTA MARKS ROTARY PARTY FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Mansfield Rotarians were hosts at their Tuesday meeting to 23 pupils of Sunshine school who were guests of honor at the club's annual Christmas party for crippled children, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

William C. Mead, chairman of the club's crippled children's committee, arranged the party, assisted by members of the committee and several Rotarians.

The gift of Santa Claus (actually attended by Rotarian Floyd Dent) provided the high spot of the occasion, each child being presented with a gift that turned out to be "just what was wanted."

During the dinner music was furnished by the Senior high school orchestra, under direction of S. K. Jorgenson, and the high school chorus sang Christmas carols, directed by J. Merton Holcombe.

H. Edgar Strong, of Westinghouse, gave a repeat performance with his troupe of train dogs.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, and the county commissioners and their staffs were guests at the party.

GIVE CANTATA

Madison Glee Clubs Join For Program Thursday.

A Christmas cantata, "Adoration," will be presented by the combined boys' and girls' glee clubs of Madison high school, at 8 p. m. Thursday in the school auditorium.

The musical program will be under the direction of James Wendling, musical supervisor at the school.

Solo number in the cantata will be sung by Clifford Odson, Ned Hughes, Anita McLaughlin, Louis Esselburn, Miriam Oswalt, and Laura McLaughlin. Other numbers will be sung by a mixed-double quartet comprised of Helen Lanzen, Laura McLaughlin, Anita McLaughlin, Miriam Oswalt, Ned Hughes, Clifford Odson, Louis Esselburn, and Thelbert Nikalous.

A silver offering will be taken during the program.

MRS. PAESZLER TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Galion Woman Stricken at 83 In Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Sarah Ann Paeszler, 83, former Galion resident, died at her home here Tuesday following a brief illness. Born in Canada Sept. 30, 1854, Mrs. Paeszler came to Bucyrus 12 years ago.

Mrs. Paeszler is survived by her husband, Otto K.; a daughter, Mrs. James Hubley of Galion; three brothers, Rev. Wellington Besaw of Kent, Herman Besaw of Akron, and Elmer Besaw of Tucson, Ariz., five grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. She was a member of the Galion Baptist church.

Funeral services will be held at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home at 2 p. m. Thursday in charge of Rev. H. H. Lick. Burial will be in the Oakwood cemetery.

DIES AT AGE 89

Mrs. Elizabeth Robertson Is Taken by Death Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Robertson, 89, widow of M. J. Robertson, died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Burwell, four miles north of Mansfield, following a lingering illness. Mrs. Robertson was born May 10, 1848, in McKeesport, Pa., and came to Mansfield five years ago from Balboa, Panama Canal Zone.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Ada F. Hill and Mrs. Burwell of Mansfield, Mrs. Harry E. Greenwood of Balboa, Canal Zone, and Mrs. Daniel H. Morgan of Cristobal, Canal Zone; two sons, Elmer and Elpha of Charleston, W. Va.; two brothers, Will Hyson of Chillicothe and Vill of Smithville, Texas, 10 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. Mrs. Robertson was a member of the Wellston Methodist Episcopal church.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Friday at the Gaskal and King funeral home in Wellston, O., in charge of Rev. H. Hall. Burial will be in the Ridgewood cemetery. The body will remain at the Finefrock funeral home until Friday morning.

PRIVATE RITES HELD

Private funeral services were held at the Finefrock funeral home at 4 p. m., Tuesday for Charles Irwin, 40, who died at his home in Beverly Hills, Cal., in charge of Rev. David N. Roller. Mr. Irwin was a former resident of Mansfield. Burial was made in the Mansfield cemetery.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Unreel parade: One of the beauties of the movie Christmas is the seasonal production slump which already has resulted in lay-offs at some of the plants. Here where sentimental tears are shed at the slightest provocation (if properly dramatized), a pink slip reading "until further notice" cheers many a workman's outlook on the glad season....

The Give-Me-Tovarich club split 50-50 on attending the preview ... They say Garbo, who wanted Metro to buy the play for her and was huffed when she lost it, was present although this witness saw her not ... But Kay Francis, who sued Warner Bros. for giving it to Claudette Colbert, was otherwise occupied ...

The generality that Hollywood talks of nothing but pictures is false, if for no other reason than that half the time Hollywood talks of radio ... The world, sweetheart, is waiting for a sponsor—that's how they sing it now ...

Today's quotation, from Master Robert Benchley, the one-man movie: "There's one thing about Hollywood that stymies the Broadwayite on his first visit. He finds himself lionized, made over and promptly forgotten. There are too many celebrities to go around. Everybody has just made a million dollars or a hit picture. Or lost a fortune. Either way he's famous. After your first week here, you think you've forgotten some article of apparel when a stranger looks at you twice ..."

The Nottingham castle set for "Robin Hood's" adventures in technicolor calls superlatives to arms, spreading as it does over a vast sound stage and occupied by hordes of banqueters. The mountains of food are mostly real, including the whole beef roasting on the spit and varnished at intervals to bring out its camera flavor ... The amazing thing is that the huge grey "stones" are merely painted composition board, the heavy wooden doors so light that a two-year-old could open them easily—so light, moreover, that they had to add an artificial squeak to make them sound heavy! ...

The Zanuck-Warner feud, dating from Zanuck's break from the Warner lot in '33, flared amusingly when Zanuck issued a statement "on behalf of the industry" condemning certain radio commentators on movie matters. Pronto spoke Harry Warner challenging Zanuck's right to speak for other than his own studio. (Warner has, under contract at $50,000 for a movie, one of the best known airers of movie matters.)

Henry Fonda is print-wary ... It dates back to his arrival when a fan mag, having been denied an interview on Fonda's unsuccessful marriage to Margaret Sullavan, wrote one anyway—naming no names but making its fiction seem to emanate unmistakably from Fonda ... Hank's name was never mentioned, but he got hundreds of fan letters on it ...

Religious Differences Troublesome

By VIRGINIA LEE

N. M. and her boy friend both are 17 and very much in love. The boy's people like the girl and her dad likes the boy, but her mother is opposed to him because he is Catholic and the girl is Protestant.

N. M. is sure that she never can love another boy as she does him, and they want to plan to be married in a year or two, not before. N. M. wants my advice.

I do not blame your mother for not wanting you to marry a man of a different religion N. M. Religion is controversial matter that can cause a lot of unhappiness in a home no matter how much two people love each other.

I just happen to know of two or three couples, however, and have heard of more, who are of different faiths and who are also happily wedded. One young man who faced this problem, married the girl and seems very happy, writes:

"In case the couple marries, I think their solution lies in the strength of their love. If it isn't strong enough to withstand their differences in religion, they'd better quit right now. If it is strong they can settle their problem, but not without concessions. Probably the best arrangement would be for one or the other to change his religion. This should not be done half-heartedly or grudgingly, for that would leave a loophole for trouble later on.

"It is possible for this boy and girl to be married and each retain his respective religion, but this will mean that each will have to concede something. Each will have to grant the other the right to his own faith, and they will have to agree in which faith the children will be raised. This will be one of their most difficult problems, but it can be worked out if there is enough love and broadmindedness.

"I think the first job of this young couple is to remove any prejudice against the other's religion. Religious prejudice, I am convinced, is grounded on ignorance. Make a study of another religion than your own and you'll find your prejudice growing less and less And once you remove that prejudice, you'll feel bigger and better for it."

For you, N. M., I am glad you are planning to wait a year or so before marrying You are both too young to think of matrimony now. If your love lasts and you are of the same mind in a couple of years, you probably can work out the problem and be happy together.

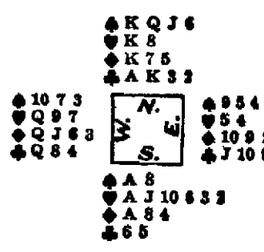
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

JUST ENOUGH HELP

MANY a contract gets made because the defenders offer just enough help. A double may help locate some of the outstanding cards, and a lead may eliminate the last speck of doubt about the situation.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable)

The final contract reached on this deal by North-South was 7-No Trumps. North bid 1-Club, South 1-Heart. North 1-Spade, South 3-Hearts, North 4-No Trumps, South 6-No Trumps, and North 7-No Trumps. West doubled this.

In response to West's double, East led the heart 5, which was covered by the 10 in dummy. It mattered not whether West covered or not, as two more rounds cleared the heart suit, and declarer claimed the remainder of the tricks.

West's defense of his double was that South had bid and rebid the hearts and it seemed quite evident that the heart Q would win a trick as no doubt the suit would have to be run in order to make the contract. With the K held by North, the lead was most desirable to declarer, as it would have been necessary otherwise to do some guessing to capture the heart Q had the suit not been opened for him This double proved very costly to West, as North could not have made the contract without running hearts and would no doubt have finessed to West and lost.

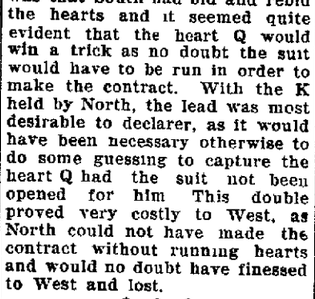
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable).

What is the correct defense against South's 4-Hearts contract?

Fat, Flabby Man Not Attractive

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

IT GENERALLY is the tall, strong and handsome specimen of manhood who gets the girls' admiring glances these days. Perhaps the expression, "nobody loves a fat man," may not be strictly true, but streamlines are the order of the day in figures as well as in automobiles in this modern age, and that goes for men as well as women!

Of course, a fellow doesn't actually have to be a Robert Taylor or Tyrone Power to look the answer to a maiden's prayer. But no man can really expect to be the apple of any female's eye if he allows himself to become fat, flabby and thick-waisted.

Excess weight ages a man in appearance, makes him seem stodgy and old, and quite out of the running. And that hurts the average man's vanity.

Diet and Exercise Needed.

Many men have the idea that reducing is strictly a woman's racket. If a woman sees any fat beginning to accumulate on her torso, she doesn't rest easy until she's trimmed her figure down to attractive slenderness. But too often, if a man notes that he is becoming somewhat corpulent, he just accepts the fact philosophically and does nothing about it. In some cases it's not that he doesn't want to do something about it, but that he just doesn't know what to do to eliminate that excess avoirdupois.

Men who have permitted themselves to become fat, pudgy and flabby generally have to observe some dietary restrictions, if they wish to lose their excess poundage. They cannot possibly expect to lose weight if they continue to over-indulge in the wrong sort of foods or ignore food balances entirely. But in addition to dieting, exercise is also important. Dieting alone won't take away that flabby, fat appearance and help to toughen a man's muscles. Exercise is also necessary in order to mold the body and make it firm, lithe and supple.

The average man seldom receives as much exercise as he should. And exercise is sometimes all a man needs to keep his body firm, supple and well-formed There are numerous gymnasiums where a man may indulge in sportive exercise, and there's no reason why a man can't do some exercising in the privacy of his home. The following exercises will be effective.

Lie flat on the floor on your stomach, elbows bent, hands under the chest and palms flat on the floor. Next, keeping your knees stiff and your body straight, slowly straighten your arms and raise your body from the floor. Then slowly lower your body to the floor again and repeat.

Stand erect, right foot extended two feet in front of the left, arms exended upward. Then, keeping your knees and elbows stiff, bend at the waist and try to touch the floor in front of your right toe. After this reverse the exercise, extending your left foot forward.

Lie on your back on the floor, arms at the sides Then bring your knees up to your chest and rotate your legs forward in circles, alternating them in bicycle-riding fashion.

Try these exercises, you tubby males, and you'll probably all wind up with physiques that will put both Taylor and Power into the shade!

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was something which sounded like a threat in Philip Veritzen's final remark that he would try his best to trace Noel's whereabouts so that he could get a message to him to return at once. So impressed and startled was I by it, that my answering, "Good night," was a mechanical thing, and for an instant after hanging up the receiver, I stood staring at it as if it were Philip Veritzen in person.

"What is it, Auntie Madge?" What is he going to do? What did he say"

Mary dashed down the hall to me as she uttered the cry, and took me by the shoulders as if she could get my answer quicker that way.

I knew there was no use concealing the truth from her or from Neol, and I spoke quickly, concisely.

"He said, as we expected, that he wished Noel to return by the quickest method of transportation possible. He asks me to give that message to you, Noel, if you should call me up. But," I added despondently, "he is not going to depend altogether upon your chance telephoning. He said that he was going to try his best to trace your whereabouts in the meantime"

What He'll Do.

Noel gave a departing ejaculation and Dicky muttered what I knew was a masterpiece of profane invective.

"What do you suppose he will do" Mary asked fearfully.

"That's easy," her uncle told her. "He'll run up a bigger telephone bill than that New Hampshire hostelry has ever seen. He'll get in touch with every hotel in this end of the island, ask if you're registered there, and insist on talking to you. He'll also get the state troopers in action, saying it's a life or death matter to find you, and asking them to get in touch with us here if they get any line on your whereabouts."

"Do you think—" the tremulous voice was again Mary's—"that he believed you, Auntie Madge, when you were telling him all those gorgeous tarradiddles?"

Couldn't Tell.

"Your auntie Madge thanks you for the camouflage," her uncle told her, determined to make the situation appear as light as possible. "I calls 'em by a much shorter and uglier word, but," turning to me, "You were a most magnificent double for Sapphira, old dear. What do you think, yourself? Did old Phil fall for your spiel, do you think, or did he sense the presence of a large wood pile with a good-sized cullud gentleman concealed in it"

"I couldn't tell," I said uneasily. "He apparently believed me, but that last speech about trying to trace Noel's whereabouts made me wonder a bit—and worry."

"I shouldn't do either," Dicky said. "The chances are that he did believe you, for your spiel was most plausible. He won't begin to get really suspicious until he draws blanks from his hotel researches. Of course, I can settle the state trooper angle. I'll simply drop over there at once—I won't trust to the telephone—and tell them that for reasons of state, Dad does not want any inquiries answered or pursued about certain visitors of tonight. When your father gets them on the telephone, they'll promise him full cooperation, and do nothing outside of relaying to me what he says. So, chickens, you don't need to worry about your father being able to find out where you are"

"You don't know my father," Noel said despondently. "If he's made up his mind to get me back tomorrow, he'll move heaven and earth to accomplish his purpose.

"Well! What do you want to do?" Mary asked a bit sharply. "Do you want to give up this wonderful gift of a day that has dropped into our laps from the skies, or rather from Aunt Madge's brain?"

"I think we might as well," Noel said hopelessly.

Continued Tomorrow.)

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, December 16.

Very progressive and expansive and solidifying factors figure in this day's activities, judging by the lunar transits. There may be a fine incentive to fulfilled ambitions in a large way, with the cooperation of influential persons or major institutions. Elders also assist in these worthy projects, and there are likely to be advantageous and happy reactions in new friendships or social contacts.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of splendid opportunity for growth, expansion and increased finances, and personal popularity and standing, both in business and social relations. Elders should offer practical co-operation. Speculation is also under good auspices.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, progressive and responsible, although much given to social life, fashionable functions and diversions Its fondness for splendor and show will not prevent its arrival at a high and respected position.

Never lift an oyster with a fork lest you puncture it and remove juice and flavor.
